ETWC has strong showing in Cleveland

By Fletcher Word, Special to La Prensa

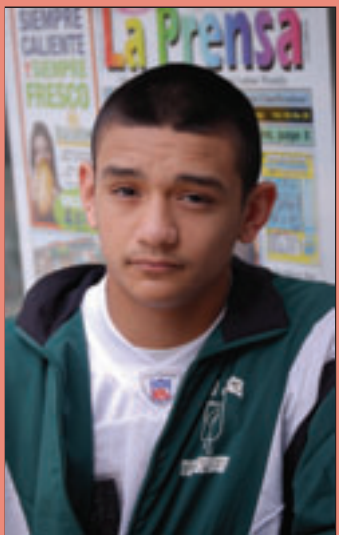

The East Toledo Wrestling Club competed at the grade school/junior high state championships during the weekend of March 16-18, 2007 in downtown Cleveland at the Wolstein Center.

"We took 28 grade school and junior high wrestlers who had qualified from the Oregon Clay District a few weeks ago," explains Hector Ramirez, assistant coach. "The competition was fierce, but we were up for the challenge."

ETWC took a strong third place ending up behind Team Miron - by 40 points - and Team Jordan, who won the team trophy "running away," says Ramirez.

"Those two clubs are all-star teams that wrestlers pay to join," says Ramirez. "We do not charge our wrestlers—it is all voluntary on our part."

The hardy, young grapplers who attended the meet included: Eric Miller, Josh Portillo, Jaxon Davis, Calixtro Mondragon, Nathaniel Hagen, Justin (Continued on Page 8)

Richardson says he'd meet Chávez, leaders of Iran, Syria

AUSTIN, 3-20-07 (AP): Democratic New Mexico Gov. Bill Richardson says U.S. foreign policy's concentration on the Middle East cost the country progress on other important issues and that Latin America has been virtually ignored.

"My point is that Latin America is a very important part of the world," Richardson said Monday, noting that he would meet with leftist Venezuelan President Hugo Chávez as part of a broader Latin American policy plan.

Calling President Bush's recent trip to the region "a little late," Richardson said the U.S. needs to be "associated with policies of democratic populism in Latin America."

"We're not," he said. "We have to pay more attention to Latin America by being there."

Richardson, who was in Austin to receive accolades from the Republican-controlled Legislature, also told reporters he would meet with Iran and Syria.

"If you're going to have peace in the Middle East, if you're going to bring some kind of resolve, result to the Iraqi crisis, you've got to think regionally," Richardson said. "You should meet with Iran and Syria. You don't make peace with your friends. You make peace with your enemies."

Richardson said he wanted to create a "new alliance for progress for Latin America," including economic assistance, loans to help the energy entrepreneurs as well as education, health care and nutrition.

"I would shift the focus of our assistance to Latin America, which I think is most important because it's our hemisphere," said Richardson, who is Latino.

Richardson acknowledged he may lag in fundraising ability.

"I'm not going to have the same amounts of resources as Sen. (Hillary Rodham) Clinton and Sen. (Barack) Obama," he said of the two leading Democratic candidates. "I'm a grassroots candidate."

My fundraising will be respectable. ... I'm running to get the support of the voters, not the funders. This shouldn't be a race about money or resources or rock star status."

Richardson said he hoped his support in the state House and Senate would translate to votes in the 2008 presidential primary in Texas.

"I had two unanimous resolutions endorsed by the Texas House and Senate, and I hope that's the same for the vote in the Texas primary for president," Richardson said, referring to resolutions passed Monday by the Texas House and Senate welcoming him and recognizing his accomplishments.

He said he hopes Texas moves its primary up to Feb. 5, 2008. The Legislature is considering such a measure.

"It's, I believe, good for Texas, because issues important to Texas—agriculture, water, immigration, issues related to transportation—would be front and center. In the past, Texas has been a flyover for presidential candidates in both parties, a place where you raise money," he said. "So I hope this happens."

In San Antonio, where Richardson attended a fundraiser, he was introduced to reporters by Henry Cisneros, a Housing and Urban Development secretary under President Clinton.

Asked why he was supporting Richardson and not Clinton's wife, Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton, Cisneros asked "How could I not support him?"

"It is not lost on me that he is the first person of Latino heritage to be running for president of the United States," Cisneros said, also citing a long relationship with Richardson. "As a person who has all my life sought the advancement of the Latino community, here is a person who is credible, legitimate, experienced, has a track record, who is running for president."

During his two-day Texas swing, Richardson had also made stops in Dallas and Abilene, his campaign said.

U.S. immigration conflict raised in firing of 3 prosecutors

By JENNIFER TALHELM Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, 3-21-07 (AP): During a congressional showdown over undocumented immigration last spring, Justice Department (DOJ) officials found themselves scrambling to answer Republicans' questions about low prosecution rates on immigration cases by U.S. attorneys on the Southwest border.

Republicans, including Republican Rep. Darrell Issa, had honed in on Southern California's then-U.S. Attorney Carol Lam, one of eight fired in the round of dismissals that has caused a furor in Congress. Issa represents a southern California district.

He and other Republicans were demanding to know why they were hearing that Lam had refused to prosecute undocumented immigrants unless they had previously been convicted of two felonies.

Internal e-mails released March 21, 2007 as a part of a congressional investigation show DOJ officials conceded among themselves that they had "some concerns about asserting that the SO Cal U.S. attorney's office has a strong record in this area."

The e-mail exchange—between Associate Deputy Attorney General Lee Otis and other DOJ officials in April 2006—is among several contained in more than 3,000 pages of documents released during the past week.

The newest batch includes further references to intense criticism from Republican lawmakers about the priorities of several border-state U.S. attorneys.

A few months later, Lam, Arizona's Paul Charlton and New Mexico's David Iglesias were among eight U.S. attorneys abruptly fired without explanation.

The dismissals of the eight prosecutors have caused an uproar in Congress as lawmakers have demanded to know whether they were part of a purge to replace them with political cronies or as a result of their work on political corruption cases.

All three border prosecutors were investigating political corruption cases at the time they were fired.

DOJ officials said after the firings that poor performance and policy disputes were behind the decision to fire the U.S. attorneys. Immigration-related prosecutions were at least part of their problem with Lam, Charlton and Iglesias, DOJ officials have said, although officials also have said they had other problems with each.

DOJ spokesman Brian Roehrkasse said Wednesday that "consistency with the department's policy priorities" on immigration was "an appropriate factor that (it) considered in deciding to ask for the resignations of U.S. attorneys."

The border-state U.S. attorneys were scrutinized at a difficult time for the Bush administration. The president was struggling to get wary House Republicans to back his immigration plan, which would establish a guestworker program for foreigners and a path to citizenship for undocumented immigrants in the country now.

Many Republican lawmakers were demanding a double-layered border wall and tough restrictions on undocumented immigrants.

The U.S. attorneys on the southern border prosecuted more than two-thirds of the nation's criminal immigration cases in 2005.

Still, lawmakers repeatedly questioned their priorities.

Even Democratic Sen. Dianne Feinstein questioned Lam's immigration prosecution rates, although Feinstein said she was satisfied with the answer that Lam was focusing on big cases. She is now one of Lam's strongest supporters.

Issa and 18 other lawmakers angrily wrote Attorney General Alberto Gonzales in on Oct. 20, 2005, about immigration prosecutions, particularly in southern California.

"It is the responsibility of the Department of Justice to punish dangerous criminals who violate federal laws, and this includes criminal aliens," the letter reads.

Republican Sen. Pete Domenici called Gonzales in January 2006 to discuss the "criminal docket and caseload" in his home state of New Mexico.

Domenici's call prompted a flurry of questions about how the caseload in New Mexico compared with other states.

A memo from the U.S. attorney's executive office quotes Iglesias as saying there was a severe need for more prosecutors in the border city of Las Cruces.

Justice Department officials later listed poor morale and insufficient resources in Las Cruces among their worries about Iglesias' management.

And in a July meeting with President George W. Bush, then-House Speaker Dennis Hastert, a Republican, raised objections to Charlton's policy of prosecuting only cases charging possession of more than 500 pounds of marijuana.

At the time, the Justice Department defended Charlton and his colleagues.

Federal prosecutors' resources on the Southwest border, particularly Arizona, were "absolutely stretched to the limit," wrote Rachel Brand, an assistant attorney general, in an e-mail to Kyle Sampson, then Gonzales' chief of staff.

Less than two months later, Charlton was on the list of federal prosecutors the attorney general's office and the White House were considering pushing out.

Feds back off tougher immigrant kids' health rule

By JENNIFER BYRD
Associated Press Writer

OLYMPIA, Wash., 3-20-07 (AP): The federal government has backed off a new rule that would have made it tougher to get medical coverage for infants born in the U.S. to undocumented immigrants.

Gov. Chris Gregoire, a Democrat, announced two weeks ago that Washington state sued the federal Department of Health and Human Services in U.S. District Court in Tacoma over the policy.

At the time, Gregoire called the rule immoral and said it violated the infants' constitutional rights.

In a news release issued Tuesday, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services in Washington, D.C., said all babies born in the country whose deliveries are covered by Medicaid would remain eligible for Medicaid services for a year.

People who are not citizens are not ordinarily eligible for Medicaid. But under certain emergencies, such as the delivery of a child, they are eligible for certain services.

Before the clarification, the new regulation would have required the state to withhold Medicaid coverage of the newborns until proof of citizenship was processed and approved.

"We have heard the concerns raised and are taking action to ensure that newborns in similar circumstances are treated the same under Medicaid eligibility rules," Leslie V. Norwalk, acting administrator of the agency, said in the news release.

"We intend to modify the documentation requirements to put all babies born in the United States whose deliveries are covered by Medicaid on an equal footing."

Gregoire said the new regulation would have been discriminatory.

"The Constitution could not be more clear: Babies born in the U.S. are citizens, regardless of who their parents are," she said in a statement issued Tuesday.

Gov. Chris Gregoire

"As citizens, these babies are legally entitled to be treated the same as any other newborn U.S. citizen—it is a basic issue of equality."

Medicaid is a joint federal-state program that covers low-income U.S. citizens. Washington also operates a state-financed program for children of undocumented immigrants.

About 8,000 infants are born in Washington every year to poor, undocumented immigrant parents.

Fallo sobre ley antiinmigrante demorará meses

Por MICHAEL RUBINKAM

SCRANTON, Pensilvania, EEUU (AP): Un juez federal quien presidió un juicio de nueve días probablemente tardará meses en fallar si el operativo de Hazleton contra inmigrantes ilegales fue una respuesta razonable a un problema sobre los crecientes índices delictivos o un intento inconstitucional por regular la inmigración.

El juez federal James Munley dijo que estaban en juego conceptos legales "muy complejos" y dio como plazo el mes de mayo para que cada parte presente argumentos adicionales en relación al caso, el cual gira en torno a si los gobiernos locales pueden actuar por su cuenta para frenar la inmigración ilegal.

Kris Kobach, el fiscal del ayuntamiento, dijo en su argumento final que la ley federal y precedentes en la Corte Suprema claramente le dan a Hazleton el derecho de aplicar su Ley de Alivio de la Inmigración Ilegal, aprobada el verano anterior después de una gran cantidad de crímenes violentos que involucraron a inmigrantes ilegales.

La ley tiene como blanco principal a los dueños de viviendas quienes rentan a inmigrantes ilegales y a los negocios que les dan trabajo. Una ordenanza que acompaña a esta ley exige que los inquilinos se registren ante el ayuntamiento. "Estas ordenanzas fueron redactadas con mucho detalle. Las violaciones a la constitución son imaginarias", expresó Kobach, profesor de leyes en la Universidad de Misurí.

Pero Witold "Vic" Walczak, abogado de la Unión de Libertades Civiles de Estados Unidos (ACLU por sus siglas en inglés) mencionó en su argumento final que Hazleton había volteado los hechos para poder "satanizar a los indocumentados y convertirlos en sus chivos expiatorios injustamente" y culparlos por el crimen, escuelas sobresaturadas y otros problemas.

"Tratar de achacar los problemas a los inmigrantes indocumentados es injusto", expresó Walczak, director legal de la ACLU de Pensilvania.

La ACLU y un grupo defensor de los derechos de hispanos, el Fondo para Defensa Legal y Educación de Puerto Rico, demandó a Hazleton para revertir dichas leyes, alegando que usurpaban la facultad del gobierno federal de regular la inmigración y que privaban a los residentes de sus derechos constitucionales a protección en igualdad de condiciones y a un proceso justo.

Kobach calificó los argumentos legales de los demandantes de "tontos" y "absurdos". En particular, se burló del testimonio de un experto quien dijo que sólo un juez en materia de inmigración podía determinar el estatus migratorio de alguien.

"Si uno cruza la frontera clandestinamente, se convierte en indocumentado en el momento en que pisa suelo estadounidense, no cuando dos años más tarde un juez dice, 'Vamos a deportarte'", expresó.

Munley prohibió la aplicación de las medidas en Hazleton hasta que se resuelva el asunto en la Corte, el primero caso en Estado Unidos en analizar los esfuerzos locales para reducir la inmigración ilegal. Docenas de ciudades grandes y pequeñas alrededor del país han seguido los pasos de Hazleton.

La junta del ayuntamiento de Hazleton ha cambiado la ordenanza antiinmigrante varias veces con el afán de frustrar las objeciones legales de la ACLU, siendo la más reciente la noche del miércoles.

La medida original indicaba que la raza y la etnia a la que alguien pertenece podrían usarse como fundamento para hacer una denuncia, siempre y cuando no fueran el "único o principal" factor—llevando a los demandantes a afirmar que la ciudad estaba aprobando el racismo.

La junta del ayuntamiento eliminó esas tres palabras el miércoles, invalidando toda denuncia basada en la raza o grupo étnico, incluso si es de forma parcial.

En otro giro, la junta también dijo que los negocios no serían penalizados a menos que emplearan a inmigrantes "a sabiendas" de su estatus ilegal.

Gov. appoints Prentiss to education post

CLEVELAND, 3-20-07 (AP): Gov. Ted Strickland appointed the former Democratic leader of the Ohio Senate to a new position of special education adviser, his office said in a news release.

C.J. Prentiss, who left office last year because of term limits, will try to close the achievement gap between black and Latino students and their white peers.

Prentiss will work at the Ohio Department of Education but report to Strickland in a full-time position that pays $90,000.

"I cannot think of a better or more qualified person to help ... make sure each child has an equal chance to achieve their potential and succeed in Ohio," Strickland, a Democrat, said Monday of Prentiss, who has been elected to the state school board, the Ohio House and the state Senate.

Prentiss, 65, said her initial focus will be on black male students. At one high school in her hometown of Cleveland, the graduation rate for black males was 22 percent, she said.

"We've got to be able to say that enough is enough, and this must change," said Prentiss, a former teacher. "But it will require a concerted effort from the entire community, including parents. The bottom line is that this is not just a school problem. It's a community and home problem as well."

Daughter of the late Robert F. Kennedy to present keynote address at legal fundraiser

Human rights activist and attorney Kerry Kennedy is scheduled to give the keynote address at the 2007 Access to Justice Awards, to be presented on March 29, 2007, at The Pinnacle in Maumee, OH.

The awards, presented by Advocates for Basic Legal Equality, Inc. (ABLE), Legal Aid of Western Ohio, Inc. (LAWO), and the Toledo Bar Association Pro Bono Legal Services Program recognize outstanding service in the public interest by attorneys, organizations, and community advocates in northwest Ohio. Proceeds from the event help LAWO and ABLE provide no-cost civil legal services to low-income Ohioans in 32 counties.

Honored at this year's Access to Justice Awards Dinner are the University of Toledo Law School Professor and attorney Robert S. Salem with a Public Interest Law Award, former executive director of Planned Parenthood and community volunteer Betty Morais with a Community Advocacy Award, and the Zepf Center for Community Mental Health, with a Community Advocacy Award.

U.T. Prof. Rob Salem

"We're so pleased that Ms. Kennedy can be a part of our celebration of Access to Justice," said awards committee Co-chair Keith Wilkowski.

"For more than a quarter of a century, Ms. Kennedy has carried on the tradition of service started by her father, the late Robert F. Kennedy. As a tireless champion of human rights, she has dedicated her life to the promotion and protection of basic rights, equal justice, and preservation of the rule of law," Wilkowski says. "And as a member of the Bar Associations of Massachusetts and the District of Columbia, Ms. Kennedy understands the value of the Legal Aid movement in America." Kennedy has worked on a diverse range of social justice issues, including land rights, judicial independence, freedom of expression, ethnic violence, child labor, the environment, and women's rights, leading over 40 human rights delegations to over 30 countries.

In her 2004 book, Speak Truth to Power: Human Rights Defenders Who Are Changing Our World, Kennedy profiles a number of celebrated human rights activists, including Marian Wright Edelman, the Dalai Lama, Desmond Tutu, and Elie Wiesel.

She also tells the stories of unsung heroes like "Anonymous," who risks prison or torture by Islamic extremists for teaching Sudanese women their rights in the midst of a civil war. "You cannot kill an idea, you cannot imprison freedom," said Nelson Mandela. "The lives of the common women and men in this book, heroes every one, inspire all who believe in liberty and justice."

In 1988, Kennedy established the Robert F. Kennedy Center for Human Rights for the protection of rights codified under the U.N. Declaration of Human Rights. The Center provides a base of support to human rights defenders, and uncovers and publicizes abuses such as torture, disappearances, and repression of free speech; urges Congress and the administration to highlight human rights in foreign policy; supplies activists with the resources they need to advance their work; and creates other programs to advance respect for human rights. Kennedy also serves on the board of directors, of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial, a non-profit organization that addresses the problems of social justice in the spirit of her late father.

Pachuca es nuevo líder en México

Por CARLOS RODRIGUEZ

MEXICO (AP): El argentino Christian Giménez anotó tres goles y Pachuca alcanzó el liderato general del torneo Clausura mexicano al doblegar el domingo 4-2 al Atlas de la ciudad occidental de Guadalajara en un partido correspondiente a la duodécima fecha.

Giménez consiguió sus tantos a los 20, 35 y 37 minutos. Su compatriota Damián Alvarez anotó a los 71, para cerrar la cuenta para los Tuzos, que a pesar de tener un juego pendiente ante Tigres, suman 24 puntos, uno más que Cruz Azul.

Pachuca, que no contó con sus jugadores colombianos Andrés Chitiva, Aquivaldo Mosquera y Miguel Calero por estar concentrados con su selección nacional, llegó a cuatro victorias en fila, y ya suma 10 fechas sin derrota.

Daniel Osorno a los 25 y el uruguayo Nicolás Olivera a los 27 marcaron los goles para el Atlas, que cayó por segunda vez en sus últimos tres duelos y se quedó en 18 puntos, como tercer lugar del Grupo 1.

Por la tarde, en Torreón, con gol del argentino Fernando Ruiz, Santos doblegó 1-0 al Veracruz.

Ruiz, uno de los refuerzos que Santos firmó para esta temporada con la intención de salvarse del descenso, consiguió su gol a los 40 minutos. La jugada del gol se generó en un tiro de esquina cuando el argentino Matías Vuoso remató de cabeza y el portero de los Tiburones rechazó el balón hacia Ruiz, quien con potente disparo consiguió el gol del triunfo.

Ruiz, Vuoso, Daniel Ludueña, Juan Pablo Rodríguez y el portero Oswaldo Sánchez firmaron esta temporada con los Guerreros, que con el resultado suman un promedio de 1.1145, apenas superior al 1.0690 del Querétaro. El otro involucrado en la lucha por no bajar de categoría es San Luis, cuyo porcentaje es de 1.1905.

"Es un triunfo importante, pero falta un largo camino para la salvación", dijo Sánchez.

Los Tiburones sufrieron su segunda derrota bajo el mando del entrenador uruguayo Aníbal Ruiz, quien fue firmado para reemplazar a Emilio Gallegos y es el tercer entrenador de los escuálros en el torneo.

En el último juego de la jornada, en Toluca, los Diablos Rojos no pudieron vencer a Jaguares y empataron 0-0.

Vicente Sánchez y Antonio Naelson "Zinha" tuvieron las llegadas más claras para el Toluca, que llegó a ocho empates en el Clausura y tiene 14 puntos que los dejan en el quinto puesto del Grupo 3.

After-school boxing program is a knockout

By Claudia Annoni-Monzón, La Prensa

The International Boxing Club, based in Toledo, Ohio, offers a knock-out of a pugilist program. It presents an after-school, competitive program, where the members are required to attend tutoring classes in order to participate in the boxing training. These classes are provided at the club.

"Not all participants want to fight or box, some just come for the training", Harry Cumming, director of the Club specified. "We want to improve their life skills through discipline and hard work."

People from all ages can joined the Club, but one of its main focuses is to reach out to diversified youth. It seeks to increase youth awareness of the dangers of drug abuse and help create positive attitudes and self-images through participation in spirited, competitive boxing events.

"Here we all have something in common, the passion for the sport and the kids that come," said Coach James Merriweather, who is a retired fighter and volunteer at the Club.

ETWC has strong showing in Cleveland

 Tomaszewski, Jarred Davis, Alex Rosales, Brandon McDowell, Seth Gaghen, Andy Howard, Zack Kern, Bryce Castilleja, Ed Silva, Devin McGibbeny, Jacob Conine, Shane Gaghen, Tyler Hackworth, Brandon Ishmael, and Cameron Griffen.

Nick Stencel had a strong showing, with a very solid fourth place finish.

Placing third for ETWC was Kyle McGibbeny who, according to Assistant Coach Earl Ramirez, "was robbed." In his semi-final bout against the Tulsa national champion, and a member of Team Jordan, the referee made some horrendous calls, says Earl Ramirez, and even the Team Jordan coach felt his wrestler should have lost.

Chad Sonnenberg also placed third.

In an awkward situation for the team and the coaches, on two occasions ETWC wrestlers battled each other for the gold. The coaches agreed not to coach the wrestlers during the matches in order to avoid showing partiality.

The first two ETWC wrestlers to face each other were Jay "Jay Bug" Nino and Chance Sonnenberg. "Jay Bug had what I would say was the best tournament in his wrestling career," said Hector Ramirez. "He was on fire." Unfortunately for Jay, he lost a very close match to Chance who also wrestled extremely well all weekend.

The other ETWC pair to face off were Matt Stencel and Jacob Rettig. Matt prevailed in their finals bout,

"We told the second placers that there was nothing to be ashamed of," says Hector Ramirez, "especially since you get to avenge the loss in practice every week."

The club's other two champions were Evan "E" Ulinski, (Coach Steve's son) and Dalton Ishmael. Evan had his best tournament, says Ramirez. "He arguably had one of the top upsets, in beating the projected state champ, 1-0," says Ramirez. "He wrestled very smart, with no mistakes. He dominated, 5-0, in the finals. And Dalton, our big man, destroyed the projected state champ, 13-7, and then stuck his opponent in the finals, in less than a minute."

Keeping things in order and working diligently behind the scenes was Bonnie Mauder, program director (Seth and Shane's mom). ETWC coaches present were Head Coach Gary Burgess, assistant coaches Earl and Hector Ramirez, Steve Ulinski, Chris McGibbeny, Jim Davis, Ray Castilleja, Ed Silva, Joe Campos, Edison "Junior" Kendall and Dave McDowell.

Felipe Martínez: The "True" Beast of the East
 Felipe Martínez, former

ETWC wrestler and Genoa native, also came to the state championships in Cleveland. Felipe, who is with Team Jordan, is 13 years old and is currently wrestling at 120 pounds. His contests proved to be no contests at all as he "toyed with and destroyed his opponents," says Hector Ramirez.

A multiple Tulsa National Champion, Felipe "truly looked like a beast," says Joe Campos, assistant ETWC coach. Felipe arrived in

The Spirit of César Chávez touches high school students

By Andreaanna Rivera

Human Values for Transformative Action (HVTA), a local organization, has launched the Community HeARTbeats program in Northwest Ohio.

The Community HeARTbeat approach calls upon artists and people of goodwill to connect with individuals from marginalized groups and to create visual images that accurately represent the experiences, needs, and suggestions of these individuals/groups.

This grass-roots initiative uses creative expression as a tool for inspiring, engaging, and involving young Toledoans and youth from surrounding areas in processes of reflection, dialogue, envisioning, team building and collective action. The resulting art work is then used to inform, inspire, and mobilize the community.

HVTA has recruited a group of Ambassadors for Justice from the Toledo area to collaborate on holistic community development projects. In the spirit of the great César Chávez, champion of justice, Dr. Lorna Gonsalves, Executive Director of HVTA, initiated listening and learning sessions with a team of new Libbey Ambassadors for Justice. The goal was to identify concerns felt by Latino youth and to use creative expression as a channel for taking these concerns to the public and thereby prompting collective action. It is her hope that young people will be transformed as they work to transform the communities in which they live.

This Community HeARTbeats project is developed by HVTA, in partnership with Adelante Latino Resource Center After School Program from Libbey High School and the Bowling Green State University Art Education Department.

The student's artwork will be on unveiled at Adelante's 4th Annual César Chávez Humanitarian Awards Fundraiser March 30, 2007 at the Dana Conference Center, 5-8PM. For tickets, call (419) 244-8440.

Cleveland with a 27-1 record and left 31-1. "He is at a different level than his opponents," says Ramírez. "He made some returning state placers look like they had just started out wrestling. He probably could have moved a couple of weight classes above what he wrestled and won it there also."

Felipe, says Ramírez, is one of the best wrestlers to ever come out of northwest Ohio. His one loss was to a two-time Division I state champ from Lakewood St. Edward's, Collin Palmer, in the Slippery Rock Open - open to all junior and senior high school wrestlers. Felipe lost that match 6-5 in overtime.

According to Ray Castilleja, ETWC assistant coach and Felipe's cousin, Palmer, a 125 pounder, did not have a closer match to any Ohio high school wrestler than the one he had with Felipe. Palmer, a 16-year-old sophomore, is ranked number one in the nation.

The following weekend, March 23-25, 2007, Felipe captured first place at a national tournament in Danville, Illinois, where 17 teams from the Midwest, California, and Texas competed.

Marchas pro y anti inmigración en calles de Los Angeles

Por ANA BEATRIZ CHOLO

LOS ANGELES (AP): Manifestaciones contrapuestas conmemoraron el domingo el primer aniversario de una manifestación de medio millón de personas a favor de los derechos de los inmigrantes.

Las concentraciones del domingo distaron de atraer a las multitudes del evento que conmemoraban. Cerca de 500 activistas de grupos de derechos de inmigrantes marcharon a un céntrico edificio de oficinas del gobierno en reclamo de una reforma migratoria, en tanto que un contingente más pequeño de manifestantes opuestos a la inmigración exigieron un control más estricto de las fronteras de Estados Unidos.

La hilera de manifestantes a favor de la inmigración era demasiado delgada como para rodear el edificio federal como se había planeado. Pero pese a una participación menor a lo anticipado, la organizadora del mitin Marta Rojas dijo que el evento del año pasado dio inicio a un movimiento importante.

"El gobierno está comenzando a escuchar", expresó. "Empiezan a ver la fuerza de los inmigrantes. Documentados e indocumentados están manifestándose".

Previamente, cientos de personas asistieron a un acto por los derechos de los inmigrantes en el estadio Los Angeles Sports Arena donde hablaron el alcalde angeleño Antonio Villaraigosa y el presidente de la legislatura de California, el demócrata Fabián Núñez, y que fue amenizado por mariachis.

La marcha del 2006 vino tras una legislación aprobada por la cámara de representantes de Estados Unidos que tipificaría como delito grave entrar a Estados Unidos de manera ilegal.

Algunos manifestantes el domingo llevaban carteles que decían "Legalización ahora" y "Somos trabajadores, no terroristas".

Jefferson Azevedo, inmigrante brasileño, dijo que no consideraba a ningún inmigrante ilegal.

"Todos sabemos que esto es territorio mexicano", expresó. "Ellos no cruzaron la frontera. La frontera los cruzó".

Mientras tanto, algunos cientos de manifestantes de grupos contrarios a la inmigración ilegal, incluidos Save Our State y Minuteman Project, sostenían carteles que decían "Derechos Civiles en México" y "Ninguna amnistía para indocumentados".

Esther Lofton, de 76 años, dijo que estaba representando a "mi comunidad, la comunidad negra de Watts, un área que ha visto un gran incremento de inmigrantes hispanos en la última década. Lofton dijo que está en contra de la inmigración ilegal sin importar la raza.

"Estoy aquí no sólo combatiendo a los hispanos", dijo, acorralada junto a otros manifestantes en una esquina por la policía en el área del centro. "Estoy aquí para combatir la inmigración ilegal. Esta es mi primera marcha, pero espero lograr que algo surja de esto".

Algunos activistas a favor de la inmigración provocaron al grupo desde el otro lado de la calle.

Aries:

Considera la idea de canalizar tus aspiraciones creativas, Aries. Seguramente disfrutarás de una actividad de este tipo. Aunque nunca antes lo hayas explorado, no existe un día mejor que hoy para que pruebes. Podrías comenzar un diario si aún no lo has hecho. Parece tonfo, pero esto le dará a tus ideas un espacio y puede resultar un puntapié inicial para futuras reflexiones. También podrías intentar con la poesía y la ficción.

Tauro:

Definitivamente éste no es un buen día para que te quedes en casa y hagas tareas domésticas, Tauro. Si lo haces, algunos pensamientos muy irracionales pueden invadirte durante el día. Sin importar el clima, será mejor que salgas y hagas cualquier cosa para que tu mente esté ocupada con pensamientos positivos. Sal de compras, asiste a un evento deportivo, mira una película, o visita un amigo. Hagas lo que hagas, distrae tu mente. Que tengas un buen día.

Géminis:

Si trabajas, hoy llegarán noticias de una promoción o un nuevo desafío interesante en el trabajo. Si bien es algo que venías deseadando desde hacía tiempo, quizás dudes en aceptarlo inmediatamente. Si no trabajas, un cambio en tu vida cotidiana te obligará a tomar una decisión ¿Podrá ser que tu autoestima esté algo baja ahora, Géminis? ¡No permitas que eso te detenga! Este sentimiento es solamente temporáneo mientras que la oportunidad podría desarrollarse en algo de largo plazo. ¡No dejes pasar la oportunidad!

Cáncer:

Hoy haz planes para escribir una carta, enviar una tarjeta de saludos o preparar paquetes para envío de larga distancia, Cáncer. Esto te resultará divertido - especialmente si la persona que lo debe recibir no lo espera. Los cuadros, artesanías, galletitas, golosinas o libros son un regalo hermoso para alguien especial. Hasta una simple tarjeta de saludos puede iluminar el día de alguien. Diviértete.

Leo:

Recompénsate por todas las cosas maravillosas que has estado haciendo por ti y los demás, Leo. Mereces ser tratada como una reina: asegúrate de tratarte como tal. Muchas veces te vuelves tan crítica de las cosas que haces que terminas castigándote sin necesidad. Agasárate por ser buena persona en vez de criticarte por ser mala. Sin embargo, en todo momento recuerda que eres perfecta tal como eres.

Virgo:

Hoy podrás sentirte ansiosa, más que de costumbre, Virgo. Puedes tener los nervios bastante alterados y la sensación de estar quizás en el camino erróneo. Lo más probable es que necesites recuperar la calma y relajarte. Deja que tu mente se apacigüe y permítete pensar con claridad, sin la distracción de un montón de gente a tu alrededor diciéndote qué debes hacer.

Sentirás falta de motivación, Libra, pero no dejes que esto te deprima. Debes tomarlo como un mensaje para que te lo tomes con calma y descanses. No sientas que siempre tienes que llegar al límite. La vida no es una competencia. Debe disfrutarse y saborearse. Los tiempos de calma y descanso son importantes para asegurar las tiempos de actividad.

Escorpio:

Hoy sentirás como si estuvieras fuego bajo tus pies sin importar dónde te pares, Escorpio. Las personas y situaciones te incitarán para que actúes. Descubrirás que cualquier discusión que tengas estará fuertemente cargada de emociones. Sin embargo, ten cuidado que las mismas no estén basadas en información errada. Podría ser que exista un gran malentendido que necesite aclararse.

Sagitario:

¿Tienes planes para ir a una fiesta esta noche, Sagitario? No los cancelés. Si eres soltera, te presentarán una posible pareja sentimental y pasarán la velada completa juntos. Si ya tienes pareja, aparecerá alguien en la escena que será un contacto valioso para los negocios y que hasta pueda formar una sociedad contigo. Al menos que estés muy cansada para moverte, ¡levántate y ve! ¡No te arrepentirás!

Capricornio:

Recibirás una extraña comunicación de una persona que no deja su nombre y cuya voz no lo reconoces, Capricornio. Sin embargo, te sonará como algo importante y estarás molesta pensando en ello toda la tarde. ¿Cómo hacer para contestar una llamada si no dejan su identificación? No te vuelvas loca. No vale la pena angustiarse. Si es importante, la persona volverá a llamar. Recuerda esto durante todo el día.

Acuario:

Las relaciones de todo tipo prosperarán en este momento, Acuario. La mente y las emociones se unen beneficiosamente, permitiéndote incrementar tu comprensión de los que te rodean. Las relaciones sentimentales en particular se refuerzan, y puedes comprender mejor los valores de tu pareja, sus actitudes y motivaciones. Debes hacer saber sobre tus intenciones a todos los que te rodean - preferentemente de una manera más sutil que verbal. Esta última puede sonar condescendiente.

Piscis:

Las cosas no están muy claras en tu cabeza, Piscis. Te sientes sin rumbo, como un barco que navega a la deriva. A pesar de ser un ejemplo simple, resata muy bien tu situación. Pero todo tiene una solución. Trata de mirar la dirección del viento y configura tus velas de tal manera a aprovecharlo. Siempre intenta hacer las cosas de la manera más difícil. Ha llegado el momento de buscar la simplicidad de las cosas.

Gloria Estefan encabeza festival para jubilados

SAN JUAN (AP): La cantante cubana Gloria Estefan, el conductor de televisión chileno Don Francisco y el golfista puertorriqueño Chi Chi Rodríguez son algunas de las celebridades que encabezarán los festejos que por primera vez se le dedican a la comunidad de hispanos jubilados.

El activdad, que auspicia la organización AARP (antes American Association of Retired Persons) y denominada Feria de la Segunda Juventud, se celebrará los días 5 y 6 de mayo de 2007, en el Centro de Convenciones de Puerto Rico, se informó.

"Este festival de dos días celebra mucho más que a la comunidad de los 'boomers' (nacidos durante la explosión de nacimientos, entre 1946 y 1964) y de las personas mayores de 50 años: es un evento acerca de la familia, las relaciones intergeneracionales, y para ayudar a nuestros miembros a vivir una vida plena y saludable", dijo en comunicado de prensa el presidente de AARP, Erik Olsen.

La entidad, que ayuda a las personas de 50 años o más a mantener su independencia, tiene afiliadas alrededor del mundo, entre ellos 1,2 millones de hispanos.

La actividad incluirá paneles de discusión sobre salud, seminarios educativos y de finanzas, así como programas artísticos.

Halle Berry presenta 'Perfect Stranger' en su ciudad

VALLEY VIEW, Ohio,

Carla Soto

EE.UU. (AP): Aun bajo la lluvia, Halle Berry atrae a una multitud cuando regresa a su casa en el área de Cleveland.

Unas 800 personas esperaron el jueves por la noche en este suburbio de Ohio para ver pasar a la actriz ganadora de un Oscar previo a una proyección de su nueva película, "Perfect Stranger".

Los espectadores tomaron fotos con cámaras y teléfonos celulares cuando Berry llegó al teatro en una camioneta deportiva. La estrella firmó autógrafos, conversó con sus fans y respondió preguntas de los medios de comunicación.

"Estoy tan feliz de estar en casa", dijo a sala llena en el teatro. "Les juro que es verdad. No importa en cuántos países haya estado, no importa cuántas bienvenidas calurosas me hayan dado, mi corazón estaba latiendo cuando llegué. Nada se siente mejor. Todas las voces me suenan familiares... Soy de aquí. Y son una de ustedes".

Berry, de 40 años, creció en el área de Cleveland y terminó la escuela secundaria en el suburbio de Bedford en 1984. En el 2002 ganó el premio de la Academia a la mejor actriz por su trabajo en "Monster's Ball".

Entre los asistentes al evento estuvieron el alcalde de Cleveland Frank Jackson y el wide receiver de los Browns Braylon Edwards.

"Perfect Stranger", coprotegida por Bruce Willis y Giovanni Ribisi, se estrena en las salas de cine estadounidenses el 13 de abril, 2007.

Adriana Gil en Muestra de Cine Latinoamericano

LERIDA, España (AP): La española Ariadna Gil y el argentino Leonardo Sbraglia participaron el viernes en la Muestra de Cine Latinoamericano de Lérida, donde pidieron un mayor apoyo para el cine iberoamericano.

"Es muy duro para los que hacen películas que luego puedan salir", declaró en rueda de prensa la actriz, según Europa Press. "Hay que ayudar a todo el mundo porque el público potencial existe y porque se seguirá haciendo cine".

Por su parte Sbraglia afirmó que el cine de su país "está de moda. Puedes encontrar películas de cualquier temática y además, donde hay una película argentina, gana", dijo en la misma rueda de prensa.

Ambos lamentaron los problemas de distribución que enfrenta el cine latinoamericano en sus propios países y dijeron desconocer la causa.

El actor argentino también aprovechó para hablar de su más reciente filme, "Concursante", de Rodrigo Cortés, sobre el mayor premio que se haya dado en un programa de concursos.

Brands of cat and dog food affected by recall

Menu Foods has recalled dog food sold under 51 brands and cat food sold under 40 brands. The food was distributed throughout the United States, Canada, and Mexico by major retailers such as Wal-Mart, Kroger and Safeway. The recall is limited to "cuts and gravy" style pet food that was sold in cans and pouches.

Two other companies—Nestle Purina PetCare Co. and Hill's Pet Nutrition Inc.—voluntarily recalled some products made by Menu Foods as a precaution. More exact product information is available online at www.menufoods.com/recall.

Citgo gives $500,000 to Latino student fund

TULSA, Okla., 3-20-07 (AP): Citgo, a Venezuelan oil company, is making a $500,000 donation to a program that enhances education and employment opportunities for Latinos.

The Conexiones Hispanic Education and Workforce Program is "designed to enhance Latino students' academic success and enable them to achieve their full potential as students, role models, mentors and community leaders," the Community Service Council of Greater Tulsa said.

The program's goal is to increase the number of Latino children who graduate from high school.

It will begin by targeting the nine elementary and three middle schools that feed into Rogers High School. The Latino enrollment at those schools was 2,348 as of Oct. 1, 2006.

Conexiones is particularly targeted at students in educational transitions, such as elementary to middle school and middle school to high school.

"The idea is to have a seamless transition from one level to the next," said María Palacios, who works in community relations at Williams Cos. Inc. but was the Community Service Council's project director for Conexiones since work began on it in 2005.

Questions and answers about the pet food recall

By The Associated Press

Q: What brands and types of pet food are being recalled?

A: The recall involves Ontario-based Menu Foods' "cuts and gravy" style cat and dog food packaged from Dec. 3 to March 6. The wet food, which consists of chunks of meat in gravy, is packaged in cans and small foil pouches. The food was sold under numerous brand names—40 cat food brands and 51 dog food brands as of Monday.

Q: What happened to the food that led to this recall?

A: The recall started after reports that at least 10 pets—one dog and nine cats—suffered kidney failure and died after eating the food, according to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. The FDA on Monday said that as many as one in six animals died in tests of suspect dog and cat food by the manufacturer after complaints the products were poisoning pets around the country.

Q: Where was this food sold?

A: The pet food was sold throughout North America under both store and major brand labels at Wal-Mart, Safeway and other large retailers.

Q: What should I do if I have some of this pet food in my cupboard?

A: The FDA says stop feeding it to your pet. Many of the major store chains are also granting refunds for returned food.

Q: How do I know if my pet is sick as a result of eating contaminated food? What are the symptoms?

A: Signs of kidney failure include loss of appetite, lethargy, and vomiting.

Q: What should I do if I already gave some of this food to my pet? Do I need to take my pet to a doctor?

A: It's best to seek advice from a veterinarian in such situations, according to the FDA.

Q: Who can I call with questions?

A: Menu Foods has a consumer hot line at 1-866-463-6738 and 1-866-895-2708. The FDA is asking those with sick or dead pets to call FDA state complaint coordinators. A list of contacts for such coordinators is available at <http://www.fda.gov/opacom/backgrounders/complain.html>.

Q: What precautions are being taken to make sure it doesn't happen again?

A: The company says it changed suppliers as of March 6, 2007, and has increased testing of raw materials and finished goods.

Weekly Horoscope

BY SEÑORA SANCHEZ

ARIES (MARCH 20 - APRIL 18)
You know about charm. But did you know that charming people are, on average, more successful than those who are less so? Tip: think of all kinds of ways to say "thank you" to everyone you encounter, especially your loved one. They are "win-win" words for sure.

TAURUS (APRIL 19 - MAY 20)
Just as many serious writers shut out the world in order to draw together their thoughts, so you must schedule chunks of time when you ignore your phone and swear off surfing the web. During these quiet times the mind is nourished.

GEMINI (MAY 21 - JUNE 20)
Be forewarned: A case of refrigerator blindness is about to afflict you - not as the literal interpretation of the phrase suggests though. It has to do with your inability to spot, and then take in, the obvious facts before you.

CANCER (JUNE 21 - JULY 22)
"The March wind roars like a lion in the sky, and makes us shiver as he passes by." Saying farewell to March is not difficult. Set your sights on putting the raw days of winter behind you and welcoming the milder winds of April.

LEO (JULY 23 - AUGUST 22)
Lions are likable, loyal AND loathe to admitting their mistakes. It's this last characteristic that could stand some attention. You're above the fray in many ways, but one reality is inescapable - like all of us, you are fallible.

VIRGO (AUGUST 23 - SEPTEMBER 22)
Ponder this: Generally we don't figure out what's wrong with us when we are feeling well. So, if you're not at your best, consider this an opportunity to get at the root cause of your annoyances. Log what you eat, take nature walks.

LIBRA (SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 22)
Flaws are in the eye of the beholder. Are time-faded markings, carved into your furniture by the busy hands of kids (or grandkids), a disfigurement? Or are they a durable reminder of the frivolous, devil-may-care nature of youth?

SCORPIO (OCTOBER 23 - NOVEMBER 21)
Daily minutia has you bogged down. Being preoccupied with the discharging of responsibilities limits your capacity for seeing the broader picture. Big plans and long term goals may get short shrift. The brass ring needs grabbing.

SAGITTARIUS (NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 21)
Easily resistant to threats, and arguments filled with cunning logic, you are much more susceptible to an approach full of openness and simple honesty. This week, a loved one may figure you out and catch you with your defenses down.

CAPRICORN (DECEMBER 22 - JANUARY 19)
Fellow Capricorns include physicist Stephen Hawking and rock stars David Bowie and Elvis. What's the common thread? They all have had a solidity of purpose in their chosen field; they've made a massive impact on life around them.

AQUARIUS (JANUARY 20 - FEBRUARY 18)
There is a reason for wearing camouflage. Sometimes blending in is necessary for survival. Sometimes being the maverick is just too risky, too isolating. Stifle your natural rebelliousness this week; be one with the crowd.

PISCES (FEBRUARY 19 - MARCH 19)
Burger King's slogan says, "Have it your way" - and that's music to your ears. Lest you allow that active imagination of yours to run wild, they only mean cheese, onions, extra ketchup and such. Sorry, no sweeping wishes granted here.

IF YOUR BIRTHDAY IS THIS WEEK: You share your birthday with Oscar De La Rosa (La Mafía, March 29), Linda V. (March 30), and Michael Salgado (April 5). Idealistic, honest, and the underdog's champion, experience is your preferred teacher.

Elizabeth Edwards inspires Clevelanders with grace and courage

By Arooj Ashraf, La Prensa Cleveland Correspondent

Cleveland: She is a survivor. Facing her mortality head-on and marching forward with incredible grace, humor, and strength. Elizabeth, wife of former U.S. Senator John Edwards, felt the overwhelming support of family, friends, and strangers when she was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2004.

She felt it again after announcing last week that the disease has returned. In one day, she received 65,000 emails and several thousand messages via snail mail. Most of them were letters of support from cancer patients.

"We think of people dying with cancer, not the ones living with it," she said at the City Club of Cleveland on March 26, 2007.

"The time has come for us to summon the better angels." She said this of her husband's presidential campaign but it also echoed her fight with cancer. Mrs. Edwards' incredible stamina and calm in facing her situation is inspirational. "Faced with our own mortality makes us think about what we want to do for other people," she said. "I choose to carry on."

She refuses to be the reason her husband gives up his presidential ambition because she is confident in his vision. "He's trying to use the grassroots to mobilize us as communities to action," she said. Mrs. Edwards stressed the importance of building communities and fostering lasting relationships. "Our capacity to build community directly correlates with change," she said.

Edwards' decision to continue campaigning for 2008 presidential elections is under intense scrutiny. Mrs. Edwards said people should look beyond outer appearances and evaluate presidential candidates based on character and vision. She advocated for Senator Edwards' Healthcare program saying the United States has the best healthcare in the world but it needs to be improved so the millions of U.S.-Americans can meet their medical needs.

She said stem cell research needs to be discussed without the inflammatory rhetoric that has left the issue at a stalemate. Mrs. Edwards stressed that research can save lives and that the United States should be its pioneer, setting the ethical boundaries.

"There are almost no issues on which I do not have an opinion," she said in response to how she sees her role as the First Lady. She said she will continue to be an advocate for improving education and providing adequate funding for medical research.

Mrs. Edwards is an accomplished attorney like her husband and says their work has taught them two great lessons. "One: there will always be heartache and struggle; two: people of goodwill can make a difference."

Mrs. Edwards was invited to speak at the City Club of Cleveland for the Women in the Game Series, presented in partnership with YWCA Greater Cleveland. In her book Saving Graces: Finding Solace and Strength from Friends and Strangers she describes her husband's campaigns, her roles as a mother, and the compassion she received from the community upon her 16-year-old son Wade's death.

Actor, activist Edward James Olmos to speak at Wright State

Highly acclaimed actor and activist Edward James Olmos will speak at Wright State University on Thursday, April 12, 2007, at a Presidential Lecture Series event.

"We Are All Members of the Same Gang" is the topic for his 7:00 p.m. address in the Student Union Apollo Room, which will be free to the public.

Olmos is the second noted Latino to speak at Wright State in recent weeks, as actress and choreographer Rosie Pérez visited the campus on March 5.

"We are excited to have someone like Edward James Olmos visit Wright State," said María Medina, president of the Latinos Involved in Further Education student group on campus. "When the university brings famous Hispanics like Mr. Olmos and Rosie Pérez to lecture, it shows the Latino students what individuals can accomplish when you get beyond the stereotypes," said Medina, also president of the Asian/Hispanic/Native American Council at Wright State.

Olmos is considered by many to be the voice of Latin America in Hollywood and throughout the country. He is active in many causes and has presented motivational speeches at reservations, prisons, high schools, and colleges. He has been honored by the NAACP for leadership in promoting racial unity.

Olmos received Emmy and Golden Globe Awards for his portrayal of Lt. Castillo on the Miami Vice television series and earned a Golden Globe as Brazilian political activist Chico Mendes in the HBO film The Burning Season. On the big screen, he was nominated for an Oscar for his role as teacher Jaime Escalante in the film Stand and Deliver.

The talk by Olmos is the kick-off for the seventh annual "Quest for Community: A Call to Action" conference on Friday, April 13, at the university. The daylong event brings together community leaders, lawmakers and university students, faculty and staff from around the state to encourage understanding of and commitment to diversity issues.

For more details on Olmos and/or Quest, contact Wright State Conferences and Events at (937) 775-5512.
