Latino groups, migrant supporters respond, mobilize to ICE raid near Cedar Point

By Kevin Milliken, La Prensa Correspondent

SANDUSKY, ERIE COUNTY, OHIO, June 7, 2018: Latinos and migrant-support groups and individuals scrambled this past week in the wake of a U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) raid on a Sandusky, Ohio-area garden and landscaping company near world-famous amusement park Cedar Point—114 people were taken into custody on alleged immigration, identity theft, and tax evasion violations.

A coalition of Toledo, Lorain, Norwalk, and Painesville-based community groups quickly gathered to condemn the raid and mobilize its collective forces, starting with a press conference held in the lobby of One Government Center in downtown Toledo on Thursday, June 7, 2018, at 10:00AM. It was co-organized by the Toledo Immigrant Alliance and Rapid Response Network.

What has particularly angered the various communities is the swift and harsh separation of young children from their parents, a traumatic and fearful experience for kids who may have been left in the care of babysitters or other relatives at the time of the ICE raids [ICE raided 2 locations]. Many of the children are U.S. citizens.

IN TOLEDO

The Farm Labor Organizing Committee (FLOC), Advocates for Basic Legal Equality,

Inc. (ABLE), Adelante, Inc., Welcome Toledo Lucas County Initiative (TLC), and other community-based groups began organizing a collection of necessities for children whose parents were taken to detention centers, as well as meeting with families to ensure they have proper legal representation during what may be expedited deportation proceedings.

"These actions by ICE are offensive to the American principles of democracy and values, which emphasize families and children," said Jesús Salas, ABLE senior attorney, who handles legal issues involving immigration and regularly represents migrant workers. "There are real-life effects to these actions taken by ICE."

"This is about human beings and who we are as a nation and how we treat every resident within the boundaries of this country," said Baldemar Velásquez, FLOC founder and president, while calling the raid "unconscionable" and questioning the "scare tactics" used by federal agents.

"It says in the pledge of

allegiance, "freedom and justice for all". Well, maybe it means to say freedom and justice for some," expressed FLOC's Velásquez, while raising concerns about due process for the detainees. "You're not supposed to be guilty until found guilty. They have a right to appeal before an immigration judge. But a lot of times, their arms are twisted and they are forced to sign voluntary departures. This is not due process. That's intimidation; those are terror tactics, scare tactics."

"It doesn't matter where you stand on this immigration debate. It matters most who we are as human beings, as individuals, and how we treat our neighbor," continued FLOC's Velásquez. "It is time to impose some humanity into this situation and try to respond to the needs of these families." "Will we walk-the-talk of faith-filled people and, consequently, actively address the virulent injustice and clear absence of respect and compassion toward our sisters and brothers who doggedly come to our border from tyranny and destitute living conditions, seeking only a humane life for themselves and their children?" queried Fr. Tony Gallagher, a retired Catholic priest.

We need to put ourselves in their shoes, to understand their humanity, to hear their stories of hope in our country. The dividing of families cannot be tolerated by any person of faith," said Fr. Gallagher to huge applause. "We need to be honest and purposeful about the purpose of the iconic phrase 'Welcome' at the base of the Statue of Liberty."

"We as a coalition of community members condemn the separation of families, including of U.S. born children," said Guisselle Mendoza-McDonald, president of the Latino Alliance of Northwest Ohio, Inc. and spokesperson for Welcome Toledo Lucas County Initiative (TLC). "This current policy is heartless and must end immediately. It's wrong on so many levels. It's inhumane and un-American."

According to Ms. Mendoza-McDonald, more than 200 children have been harshly affected by the 6-5 ICE raid and many of the children are US citizens.

ICE officials have refused to release details of the military-styled raid or otherwise comment, which took place in the early morning hours on Tuesday, June 5, by about 200 heavily-armed federal agents. Photos and eyewitness accounts showed adults and children alike handcuffed with plastic zip ties and being led away to waiting vehicles.

U.S.-born children were later released "for humanitarian reasons," after being detained for more than 12 hours.

A post on the HOLA Ohio Facebook page recounted stories told by people present at the Corso's Flower and Garden Center raid of a man "dressed in civilian clothes carrying three boxes of donuts and announcing a company meeting."

Once the charade drew employees toward him to listen, "dozens of agents moved in shouting orders" for U.S. citizens to line up on one side and those "not born in the U.S." to line up on the other. According to their account, many were loaded onto buses and taken to the Sandusky Border Patrol station, including some U.S.-born high school students.

HOLA OHIO

The HOLA Ohio Facebook post reported federal agents were armed with AR-15 assault-style rifles, with aerial surveillance. HOLA is based in Ashtabula, Ohio and directed by Veronica Isabel Dahlberg. Visit: www.holatoday.org

While the raids occurred at the agricultural-based businesses in Sandusky, Ohio and Castalia, Ohio, most of the families affected live in the Norwalk area, according to HOLA Ohio. Most are Mexican-born migrant workers. HOLA Ohio is working with the Mexican Consulate based in Detroit to identify as many people as possible and to locate individuals, help their families, and mobilize legal aid efforts.

Those being detained were transferred a tremendous distance—females to a federal detention center in Michigan, males to a private prison near Youngstown, according to the ACLU of Ohio.

HOLA Ohio mobilized a Sunday afternoon collection of diapers and store gift cards at St. Paul Catholic Church in Norwalk. A Facebook post urged people to "ensure these kids get the necessities they deserve in their time of such needless trauma." FLOC assisted in this assistance since news of the raid.

Adelante, Inc. and the Latino Alliance of Northwest Ohio, Inc. are also organizing a community-wide collection of diapers, wipes, food, clothes,

Acusan a empleado de pizzería de poner veneno al queso

FAYETTEVILLE, Carolina del Norte, 7VI 18 (AP): Un empleado de una pizzería en Carolina del Norte fue detenido tras ser acusado de poner veneno para ratas al queso rallado. Medios noticiosos reportaron que un supervisor de Primo Pizza, en Fayetteville, vio el veneno el 1 de junio antes de que el queso se usara en pizzas para los clientes.

La policía anunció el miércoles que Ricky Lee Adami está acusado de distribuir comida con materiales nocivos. La televisora WNCN-TV en Raleigh reportó que el administrador Gurol Bicer dijo que el empleado de 59 años podría haber obrado mal tras meterse en problemas con él, pero no dijo cómo.

La policía dijo que Bicer vio algo sospechoso mezclado con el queso rallado. Adami fue arrestado después de que las autoridades revisaron los videos de seguridad. El sospechoso está detenido en la cárcel del condado de Cumberland. Se desconoce si tiene un abogado que comente sobre su situación legal.

EEUU suspende visas a funcionarios nicaragüenses por DDHH

WASHINGTON, DC, 7VI 18 (AP): Estados Unidos anunció el jueves que les negará visas a los funcionarios nicaragüenses a los que responsabiliza de violar los derechos humanos durante la represión de las protestas que sacuden desde abril a la nación centroamericana.

El Departamento de Estado no identificó a los afectados con nombre y apellido ni precisó la cantidad exacta de sancionados, pero dijo que se trata de funcionarios de la Policía Nacional, autoridades municipales y una autoridad del Ministerio de Sanidad y sus respectivas familias.

"Enviamos un mensaje claro de que los violadores de derechos humanos y los que debilitan la democracia no son bienvenidos en Estados Unidos", indicó en un comunicado de prensa. La Comisión Interamericana de Derechos Humanos dijo la víspera haber verificado 127 muertes y más de 1.200 heridos a raíz de las manifestaciones iniciadas el 18 de abril contra un incremento de las cotizaciones del Seguro Social que se han tomado en un reclamo para que el presidente Daniel Ortega deje el poder.

Board approves GRCC budget with lowest tuition increase in two decades

GRAND RAPIDS, June 4, 2018: Grand Rapids Community College trustees unanimously approved a $112.3 million budget for the 2018-2019 academic year, a spending plan that includes the lowest tuition increase in nearly two decades. Tuition and fees account for about 46 percent of the college's revenue. In March, trustees unanimously approved a 0.88 percent tuition increase for the 2018-2019 academic year.

The budget is based on an in-district tuition rate of $114 per credit hour. Including universal fees, the total cost for a full-time student will be $3,879 for the year.

Board of trustees Chairman David J. Koetje said the budget reflects the college's commitment to its dual mission: making quality associate degrees affordable to students graduating from high school and workforce training accessible to people seeking to refresh or gain new skills.

"This budget continues a fiscally responsible approach to investing in opportunities to strengthen our communities," Koetje said. "We see the results individually in our students gaining an education, and collectively with GRCC having a nearly half-billion-dollar economic impact on West Michigan."

"Lifelong learning is the key to success, whether it be an associate degree, credits to transfer to a four-year school, a credential for career skills — or any combination of those," said GRCC President Bill Pink, Ph. D. "We're focused on being relevant and responsive to the people in West Michigan. Keeping a tuition increase at less than 1 percent demonstrates that commitment."

Even with the tuition increase, full-time students eligible for a full Pell grant award will have more than $2,000 available to cover textbooks and other educational expenses.

GRCC also is building partnerships throughout West Michigan to create and expand other opportunities to keep education affordable, including dual enrollment programs that served 720 high school students this year and Early/Middle College programs in five districts that

GRAND RAPIDS COMMUNITY COLLEGE served more than 300 students.

The Grand Rapids Community College Foundation works with partners to help with college expenses, including the Health Care Professionals Education Scholarship Fund, a collaboration with Spectrum Health. Earlier this year, GRCC was awarded $1 million from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to expand programs that connect vulnerable populations with careers in public works and health care.

Grand Rapids Community College has been offering educational opportunities in West Michigan for more than 100 years. Established in 1914, the college offers degree courses, certification and training programs, and workshops and personal enrichment classes. Offerings are held on GRCC's downtown Grand Rapids campus, and at several locations throughout Kent and Ottawa counties, as well as through distance learning.

'Salute America' honors Oakland County Treasurer Andy Meisner

PONTIAC: Tickets are on sale for Lighthouse of Oakland County's Salute America event on Friday, June 22, 2018 - a celebration of a bygone era and a time "to honor community leaders who've championed help for people in need."

In its 15th year, the fundraiser takes place at the historic Lafayette Grande in Pontiac and honors Oakland County Treasurer Andy Meisner, for his work helping to revitalize Pontiac and his leadership in helping to prevent foreclosures and keep people in their homes.

The 1940s will be reinvented with flair and guests will enjoy dinner, drinks, a silent and live auction and dancing to the Rhythm Society Orchestra - featuring big band & swing music.

Guests will hear from a former Lighthouse client who will share her journey from crisis to self-sufficiency. Salute America is hosted by CBS 62's Chief First Forecaster, Karen Carter.

Look for us at the "Libbey High School Alumni Friends Table"

When: Saturday, June 16, 2018
12 noon to 8PM; Libbey High School campus.

Libbey High School alumni are gathering their school newspapers "The Crystal" to prepare a historical collection (1923-2010) which will be placed with the public library. The group asks that alumni bring their copies of the school newspaper to the Libbey High School All Class Reunion cookout June 16th where they will have a table on the former Libbey HS campus. Especially needed are the years 1970-2010. The papers can be returned to the owners.

When the school was closed there was no longer a complete collection to help preserve the history of Libbey High School and its south side community. It is important that the papers are shared. The project has potential funding.

At this table we will also have the latest information on the status of the Ohio History Marker for the Libbey High School campus. Edward Drummond Libbey Day t-shirts will be available for $10.00 to support the marker dedication.

shoes, and other children's necessities at Walbridge Park in Toledo from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday, June 9th.

The aptly named "Children Left Behind Drive" publicized on Facebook, garnered at least a truckload of donations to be taken to families gathered in the Norwalk area by Pathways, a social service group based in Liberty Center, Ohio that works with migrant farmworkers.

EL CENTRO OF LORAIN

El Centro de Servicios Sociales, Inc., based in Lorain, Ohio, is organizing similar relief efforts on behalf of children whose parents were arrested. El Centro hosted a press conference in the afternoon on June 7th.

The Lorain conference was hosted by its director, Victor Leandry, who explained the difficult circumstances facing those arrested and their families; he advised that El Centro were assisting relief efforts through El Centro's caseworker Anabel Barrón and supervisor Thelma Cruz.

Additional press comments and emotional pleas were made by Lorain Police Chief Cel Rivera, José Mendiola (president of LOIRA, Lorain Ohio Immigrant Rights Association), Sister Cathy McConnell, HM (Sacred Heart Chapel), Janet Garrett (candidate for Ohio's 4th Congressional District), Lorain County Commissioner Matt Lundy, and Lorain Councilman Angel Arroyo.

Councilman Arroyo termed the seizures and separations of families "unjust" and "immoral."

Lorain Police Chief Rivera reviewed a partial history of the immigration policies in the United States after President Ronald Reagan granted amnesty to over 3 million undocumented immigrants in 1986 and noted that immigration laws were not enforced until after Sept. 11, 2001. But jobs that nobody else wanted attracted migrants who had difficulty obtaining work in their counties of origin because of the creation of NAFTA.

RACIAL PROFILING FLOC, ABLE, and other immigrant rights groups and individuals sued the U.S. Border Patrol's Sandusky post in federal court in Toledo several years ago, alleging racial profiling of migrant farmworkers in small rural communities across northern Ohio. A federal judge last year found no wrongdoing on the part of federal agents in that case.

Gusselle Mendoza-McDonald, president of the Latino Alliance of Northwest Ohio, Inc. and spokesperson for Welcome Toledo Lucas County Initiative (TLC).

"We still see concerns of ethnic profiling affecting our immigrant communities," said Eugenio Mollo, ABLE managing attorney, who spoke at Toledo's press conference. "We have recently filed additional lawsuits against officers of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources and the Ohio State Highway Patrol. Those cases remain pending. We want to hear more of those stories and we encourage people who think they have been ethnically profiled to call our office and we'll do our best to investigate the concerns."

ABLE has set up a "hotline" at 419.871.8113.

Longer term, FLOC and ABLE plan to conduct "know your rights" presentations to the "survivor families" of those detained, as well as other migrant farmworkers who may still be living in Ohio. FLOC intends to address what its leader called "exploitation" and "abuses in the workplace" that are "endemic to the agricultural industry" in Ohio and elsewhere.

"People who are oppressed need to organize to find a collective resistance, a collective way to respond to the attacks on their humanity," said FLOC's Velásquez. "We've known about abuses in that area for some time, so an incident like this was long in the making. I think the way it was conducted was a publicity stunt and pandering to instruments in our country. The problems go deeper than the current crisis we're facing right now."

While the names of those detained and any charges they face have not been released, an ICE spokesman has termed the investigation as one centered around possible tax evasion and identity theft. The investigation began with the arrest of a "document broker" last fall, according to ICE. Some of those arrested may have used fake documents and the Social Security numbers of dead people to gain employment.

"None of those people who worked in that greenhouse were MS 13, nor were they criminals," said FLOC's Velásquez. "They were hard-working people doing jobs other Americans don't want to do. Those are the people we hire in this country to do those jobs that make our flourishing economy. You talk to any farmer in Ohio or anywhere in the country and they're saying they need these workers to come to the rural areas to do these back-breaking jobs that other Americans cannot and will not do."

EMPLOYER'S RESPONSE

Corso's Flower and Garden Center issued a statement on its company website Wednesday, stating the family-owned business "prides itself on being a good corporate citizen," which "does right by the law." The company stated it "ensures that all employee taxes are properly paid."

"Corso's strives to comply with U.S. employment laws and therefore asks its employees and prospective employees for honest and legitimate identification and documentation," the statement read. "If mistakes were made or if anyone used false, fraudulent, or otherwise disingenuous identification documents or other documents to secure employment at Corso's, the company was not aware of those things."

The landscaping and wholesale plant dealer reopened its operations the day after the raid.

The Erie County raid also drew the ire of some of Ohio's congressional delegation, particularly Democrats. Many took shots at Donald Trump's new policy of cracking down on employers who hire undocumented immigrants, after publicly stating immigration enforcement efforts would focus on violent criminals and gang members. But the U.S. Attorney's Office for Northern Ohio recently announced it would hire additional staff focused on increasing immigration enforcement. The ACLU, in a statement released Friday, pointed out the DOJ [Dept. of Justice] disbanded its civil rights department last year under AG Jeff Sessions.

REP. KAPTUR AND SEN. BROWN

US Congresswoman Marcy Kaptur (D-9th District), whose district covers northern Ohio from Toledo to western Cleveland suburbs, issued a statement encouraging "transparency from ICE officials as this process unfolds."

"In this tense environment created by an administration intent on dividing us, we want to make sure everything about this action is above board and that individuals are being treated with dignity and respect," said Rep. Kaptur. "I know many Ohioans are upset and alarmed by these actions by the government and I share their concern."

US Senator Sherrod Brown (D-Ohio) was blunter, calling the raids and separation of families "immoral" and "dead wrong" in a conference call with reporters.

"My first concern is the children who were separated from their families during the raid," he said. "We're seeing too many cases of children separated from families, small children. ICE agents don't know where some of the children are."

Both Rep. Kaptur and Sen. Brown stated their offices are in contact with federal immigration authorities, trying to work through situations on behalf of the families affected by the ICE raid.

Sen. Brown, who is running for re-election this November, renewed a call for a "bi-partisan solution" to the country's immigration situation.

"This is not what we as a country stand for," said Sen. Brown. "We will be fighting on this."

ACLU RESPONSE

The ACLU of Ohio on Friday sent letters to Ohio's congressional delegation, urging immediate action to prevent the expedited deportations of the farmworkers detailed in Tuesday's ICE raid.

"We urge Ohio senators and representatives to take immediate action and ensure that no one is deported without access to an attorney and full due process in an immigration court," said ACLU of Ohio Senior Policy Director Mike Brickner. "We have an opportunity to right this horrible wrong, but we must take immediate action. The events on June 5 are irreparable, and we have the opportunity to alleviate the tremendous suffering of our Ohio neighbors, by ensuring full due process under the law."

The ACLU warned those expedited deportations "could happen in a matter of days." The civil rights group stated there has been a trend to "fast-track" and "group-track" such deportations.

"The federal government inserted itself into a small Ohio community instilling fear, panic, and chaos that will have long lasting effects on our immigrant neighbors, family members, and friends. We must not let this happen unchallenged and urge our elected officials to stand up to ICE and stop the expedited deportation of Ohio residents," said Brickner.

Many of the children are citizens of the United States of America.

Rico de La Prensa contributed to this report.

Cincinnati Zoo announces $50 Million gift

CINCINNATI, June 7, 2018 (AP): The Cincinnati Zoo has gotten a major boost for expansion plans with a $50 million donation.

The zoo says the gift from local philanthropists Harry and Linda Fath is the largest in its history. It goes to a newly launched $150 million "More Home to Roam" capital campaign.

The zoo plans to improve visitor amenities, build a parking garage to free up land, increasing energy efficiency and water conservation, and improving and expanding animal habitats. A highlight project is an "Elephant Trek" area the zoo says will be nearly five times the size of current elephant space. An Australian-themed attraction with an activity course is also planned.

The zoo draws 1.8 million visitors annually.

Fath, a real-estate entrepreneur, and his wife have long been benefactors of such Cincinnati community institutions.

Ohio court: Miranda warnings not required by social workers

COLUMBUS, June 7, 2018 (AP): The Ohio Supreme Court has ruled that social workers don't have to inform criminal defendants of their Miranda rights when conducting interviews.

At issue are statements given to a social worker by a jailed Cleveland man accused of raping a 14-year-old girl. A judge allowed the social worker to testify at trial about offender Demetrius Jackson's statements.

He was convicted and sentenced to 11 years in prison. A lower court overturned that conviction in 2016.

The high court ruled 6-1 Thursday that social workers' duty to cooperate with investigators does not make them agents of law enforcement.

Jackson's attorney, Johnathan Garver, called the ruling disappointing. He noted that the full-time job of the social worker who talked to Jackson was interrogating alleged perpetrators of sex crimes against children.

Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law releases testimony condemning proposed 2020 Census citizenship question

Washington, D.C., June 8, 2018: Today, ahead of the U.S. House of Representatives Judiciary Committee Subcommittee on the Constitution and Civil Justice Hearing on "Questions Regarding the U.S. Census", the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law submitted official testimony challenging the Trump administration's inclusion of a citizenship question on the 2020 decennial census.

On March 26, 2018, the Department of Commerce, at the direction of Secretary Wilbur Ross, set aside decades of practice and announced the 2020 decennial census will include a question asking the citizenship status of every respondent.

"We urge Congress to use every tool in its arsenal to hold the Commerce Department accountable for its unfortunate 11th hour attempt to hijack the 2020 Census. This administration's insertion of a citizenship question is legally baseless, untested, and unprecedented," said Kristen Clarke, president and executive director of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law.

"It will exacerbate the long-standing, historical undercount of African-Americans, Latinos, and other minority communities during each decennial census. The Justice Department's argument that it needs to acquire this data to effectively enforce Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act is tenuous at best. At worst, it is an insidious method to undermine the minority vote - the modus operandi of this Trump administration - and obstructs efforts to ensure a fair and accurate Census count."

The hearing comes against the backdrop of the Trump administration's ongoing hard-lined approach to undocumented immigration enforcement, including the recent introduction of a "zero-tolerance" policy calling for the prosecution of all individuals who enter the United States without documentation. While there is no distinction between citizens and non-citizens, or documented and undocumented immigrants, the citizenship question will likely deter participation in the census, resulting in an undercount of immigrant communities and communities of color.

In April, the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law and Public Counsel, along with law firm Manatt, Phelps & Phillips, filed a lawsuit on behalf of the City of San José and the Black Alliance for Just Immigration against the United States Department of Commerce in the Northern District of California. The lawsuit challenges the inclusion of a citizenship question on the 2020 Census and seeks an injunction prohibiting the Census Bureau from including the question on the next census.

Immigrant says US agents seized life savings at airport

JOHN SEEWER, Associated Press

CLEVELAND/TOLEDO, June 7, 2018 (AP) — A U.S. citizen who immigrated from Albania has accused U.S. Customs and Border Protection of seizing and keeping his life savings of $58,000 even though he has not been charged with a crime since being strip-searched at an airport last year on a trip back to his native country.

A lawsuit filed against the agency said it missed an April deadline either to return the money or start criminal proceedings. It says 64-year-old Rustem Kazazi was carrying the cash because he wanted to avoid transaction fees and thought it would be safer than trying to withdraw large sums of money in Albania, where he planned to repair a family home and was considering buying a vacation home.

Attorneys for Kazazi, who lives in suburban Cleveland, said the airport seizure highlights a practice civil rights groups have criticized for years—the government's use of civil forfeitures that allows law enforcement to take possessions without indictments or evidence a crime has been committed.

Opponents argue it opens the door for constitutional rights violations.

The Virginia-based Institute for Justice, which is handling the lawsuit filed last week, has previously sued Customs and Border Protection in two forfeiture cases in Texas, including one against a Houston-area nurse traveling to Nigeria to build a medical clinic.

In both instances after the lawsuits were filed, the agency returned the money and property without bringing charges.

"We should be convicting people of crimes before we strip them of their property—at a minimum they should first be charged," said Wesley Hottot, an attorney with the organization. "This is an un-American law enforcement tool."

A spokesman for the Customs and Border Protection said the agency doesn't comment on pending lawsuits. U.S. Attorney General Jeff Sessions has defended his agency's civil asset forfeiture program, which the Justice Department sees as a way to strip suspects of the proceeds of their activities, to deter crime, and to compensate crime victims.

But the department's inspector general found weaknesses in the program. It said the department doesn't collect enough data to determine whether the seizures benefit criminal investigations or the extent to which they infringe on civil liberties, according to a report released last year.

Former Attorney General Eric Holder in 2015 restricted the ability of the federal government to take possession of assets seized by local authorities amid concerns that property could be seized without judicial oversight and without the owner ever being charged with a crime.

Kazazi was a police officer before moving with his family to the Cleveland area in 2005. His limited use of English restricted him to jobs such as a parking lot attendant or busboy, often working two or three at a time, the lawsuit said. His wife taught English classes for immigrants. Their son also worked and contributed to the savings, it said.

The airport seizure took place last October when Kazazi was traveling to Albania.

A Transportation Security Administration agent spotted the stacks of $100 bills Kazazi had stuffed into envelopes before boarding his first flight to New Jersey. Kazazi was pulled aside into a private room at the Cleveland airport and strip-searched, the lawsuit said.

He said Customs and Border Protection agents wouldn't provide him with an interpreter or allow him to call his family even though he had trouble understanding their questions.

They then seized the $58,000 without explanation but did not arrest him before allowing him to continue on the trip, he said in the lawsuit.

A month later, he received a notice that said the money was involved in a "smuggling/drug trafficking/money laundering operation," the lawsuit said.

Kazazi's attorney called those allegations baseless, emphasizing that no charges have been filed in more than seven months.

The family has bank records and other documents that prove they saved their money from jobs they held lawfully in the U.S., the lawsuit said.

Passengers carrying more than $10,000 into or outside of the U.S. are required to fill out a report or risk a fine or forfeiture. Kazazi knew about the rule, his attorney said, and had planned to submit the forms before his next flight left New Jersey for Germany.

The Institute for Justice, in a separate lawsuit, is seeking to obtain more information about how often and how much the government uses civil forfeitures.

"No one knows in any detail how often this happens except the government," Hottot said. "And the government doesn't make this public."

México publica lista de aranceles a importaciones de EEUU

CIUDAD DE MÉXICO, 5VI18 (AP): México publicó el martes una lista de aranceles a importaciones estadounidenses, en respuesta a las tarifas establecidas por el gobierno del presidente Donald Trump al aluminio y acero mexicanos.

La lista mexicana incluye aranceles del 15% al 25% a una serie de artículos como manzanas, productos porcinos, papas, queso, bourbon y planchas de aluminio.

México importa tantos productos porcinos_casi un tercio de lo que consume_ que el gobierno dicen que eliminará los aranceles de hasta 350,000 toneladas de puerco importado para no desestabilizar el mercado.

Trump anunció la semana pasada que los aranceles al acero y aluminio aplicarían a Canadá, México y la Unión Europea.

Estados Unidos, México y Canadá están en medio de una fuerte renegociación del Tratado de Libre Comercio de América del Norte (TLCAN o NAFTA, por sus siglas en inglés).

Cámara baja negocia propuesta sobre DREAMers

WASHINGTON, DC, 7VI18 (AP): Un líder de la bancada moderada de la Cámara de Representantes dijo que su grupo ha aceptado en principio una oferta de conservadores para ayudar a los jóvenes inmigrantes llamados dreamers a quedarse en Estados Unidos de manera legal.

Jeff Denham, representante de California, dijo que el acuerdo sigue incierto.

Agregó que no habrá un acuerdo final hasta que los moderados lo vean por escrito y acepten todos los detalles.

Agregó que según la propuesta del Freedom Caucus de la cámara baja, los jóvenes inmigrantes podrían obtener un nuevo permiso para permanecer legalmente en Estados Unidos por ocho años.

Añadió que no sabía qué pasaría con los dreamers después de ese lapso. Dijo que los moderados están dispuestos a aceptar cláusulas para resguardar más la frontera, incluyendo la partida integral de 25,000 millones que el presidente Donald Trump ha pedido para construir un muro en la frontera con México.

Los conservadores rehusaron comentar sobre la propuesta.

Los reyes de España visitarán EEUU; Trump los recibirá

MADRID, 7 VI 18 (AP): El rey Felipe VI de España y la reina Letizia viajarán a Estados Unidos este mes y visitarán la Casa Blanca, Luisiana y Texas.

Las autoridades dijeron el jueves en un comunicado que la pareja real comenzará su viaje el 14 de junio y visitarán Nueva Orleans y San Antonio, ciudades que este año celebran 300 años de fundación y tienen vínculos históricos con España.

Los monarcas estarán el 19 de junio en Washington, donde serán recibidos por el presidente Donald Trump y la primera dama Melania Trump.

El comunicado dijo que los acompañará Josep Borrell, ministro de Relaciones Exteriores del nuevo gobierno socialista español. No dio más detalles.

Lunch at Levis

TOLEDO, June 6, 2018: Lunch at Levis returned on June 7, 2018, for its 15th year of lunchtime entertainment. Located at Levis Square Park, at the corner of Madison and St. Clair, Lunch at Levis is 17 weeks of food, music, and fun from June through September [each Thursday]. Food is offered from 11 a.m. to 1:30 pm. Local musicians are featured from 11:45 a.m. – 1:15 p.m. “Lunch at Levis is our largest, workday event in downtown Toledo. Workers, residents and guests gather to celebrate a variety of food offerings, great entertainment and connecting with friends. It’s a neighborhood block party designed for all ages in the heart of downtown, and it’s one of the reasons why businesses love being in the heart of our city,” stated Cindy Kerr, vice president of ConneCToledo. “I expect 2,500 – 3,000 people to be in attendance at our kickoff event.”

On many Thursdays, you can expect to see the Toledo Lucas County Public Library, The University of Toledo, and other non-profits bringing additional activities to Lunch at Levis. This year’s presenting sponsors are Explore 419 and Blade NewsSlide.

The musical line up is:

- June 7 Kyle White,
- June 14 Cherry Bombs,

Los Ariel celebran su 60ª edición con nominada especial

Por BERENICE BAUTISTA, Associated Press

CIUDADDEMÉXICO, 5VI18 (AP): La 60ª entrega anual de los Premios Ariel se celebra el martes por la noche con una nominada principal muy peculiar: una cinta dirigida por el actual presidente de la Academia Mexicana de Artes y Ciencias Cinematográficas, que otorga los galardones. “Sueño en otro idioma” de Ernesto Contreras, sobre los dos últimos hablantes de una lengua indígena, llega a la ceremonia con 16 nominaciones que incluyen mejor película, fotografía y guion original, además de siete menciones para su elenco. No figura en la categoría de dirección por mejor película, fotografía y guion original, quien prefirió abstenerse de ser considerado.

“Como siempre he dicho, las películas no son más sino nuestras, son del equipo”, dijo Contreras. “Honestamente nunca me imaginé, te lo juro, que fuera a resultar la más nominada... Sé que hemos actuado de la manera más ética posible”.

El director, apenas en su primer año de gestión como presidente de la AMACC, comenzó a trabajar en este filme hace seis años y finalmente lo estrenó en enero de 2017 en el Festival de Cine de Sundance, donde ganó el premio del público. En marzo de ese mismo año lo presentó en el Festival Internacional de Cine en Guadalajara, donde sus astros Manuel Poncelis y Eligio Meléndez empataron en el apartado de mejor actor y donde además la prensa le otorgó el premio al mejor largometraje mexicano de ficción.

La Academia cuenta con un voto electrónico secreto con un sistema diseñado por la UNAM, cuyos resultados son certificados por un notario público. Además tiene una regla que impide que los nominados voten por sí mismos.

“El sistema está hecho de tal forma que cualquier productor o director que esté inscrito y que tenga una nominación no puede votar por sí mismo”, dijo Contreras, cuyos créditos incluyen los filmes “Párpados azules” y “Las oscuras primaveras”, el documental “Seguir siendo: Café Tacvba” y series de televisión.

Para el equipo de “Sueño en otro idioma” fue necesario asesorarse con un lingüista para crear un manual completo, con reglas de pronunciación, vocabulario y conjugación, del zikril, la lengua ficticia que hablan los protagonistas, que tuvieron que tomar clases intensivas del idioma. La cinta fue filmada en el estado de Veracruz, de donde es originario Contreras, en la región de los Tuxtlas, incluyendo en comunidades indígenas cuyos habitantes abrieron sus puertas para que fueran usadas como locación.

Lleva ocho semanas en la cartelera mexicana. También planean seguir llevándola a festivales internacionales como el Festival de Cine del Mar de los Siete Colores en Colombia, donde fue la cinta inaugural el fin de semana pasado.

“Mi mayor deseo es quien vea esta película por un momento reflexione en el significado, no solamente de una lengua sino de nuestra cultura”, dijo el director.

La tema de mejor película la completan el thriller de ciencia ficción “La región salvaje” de Amat Escalante; la tragicomedia sobre vendedores de la industria hotelera “Tiempo compartido”, de Sebastián Hofmann, así como los documentales “La libertad del diablo” de Everardo González, que retrata la violencia en México, y “Batallas íntimas” de Lucía Gajá, sobre la violencia doméstica.

La ceremonia de los Premios Ariel se transmitirá en vivo desde el Palacio de Bellas Artes de la Ciudad de México por el Canal 22. Contreras destacó que tendrá como hilo conductor “el vínculo que existe entre los creadores y el público”: “Quién nos ve, quién ve nuestras películas, cómo nos ven”, dijo.

En cuanto a las expresiones contra la violencia sexual hacia la mujer y en pro de la igualdad de género, que han permeado las principales premiaciones y festivales de cine internacionales desde comienzos de año tras el surgimiento de los movimientos #MeToo y Time’s Up, señaló que no tienen planeado nada especial durante la ceremonia.

“Pero fíjate que algo que me encantó es que por primera vez en la historia (de los Ariel) hay tres directoras nominadas a mejor dirección de cinco”, dijo Contreras. “Más allá de género me parece que están ahí obviamente por su trabajo, porque son películas importantes”.

Las nominadas en la categoría de dirección son Gajá por “Batallas íntimas”; Natalia Beristáin por “Los adioses”, sobre la fallecida autora mexicana Rosario Castellanos, e Issa López por “Vuelven”, una cinta de terror en una ciudad fronteriza. La categoría la completan González por “La libertad del Diabolo” y Escalante por “La región salvaje”.

En cuanto a las películas iberoamericanas, la cinta chilena ganadora del Oscar “Una mujer fantástica” de Sebastián Lelio se medirá con la brasileña “Aquarius” de Kleber Mendonça Filho, la colombiana “La mujer del animal” de Víctor Gaviria, la cubana “Últimos días en La Habana” de Fernando Pérez y la argentina “Zama” de Lucrecia Martel.

La estrella de la época de oro del cine mexicano Queta Lavat y el fotógrafo Toni Kuhn serán galardonados con el Ariel de Oro a la trayectoria durante la ceremonia, que tendrá como director musical al tecladista de Café Tacvba Emmanuel del Real.

Costos e ingresos de Copa del Mundo por debajo de récords

Por GRAHAM DUNBAR, Associated Press

GINEBRA, 5 VI 18 (AP): La Copa del Mundo del 2018 le ha costado a Rusia miles de millones de dólares en preparativos y generará centenares de millones para la FIFA.

Aún así, las enormes cifras, rutinarias para grandes eventos deportivos, no serán récords para Copas del Mundo.

El presupuesto oficial de Rusia de 678.000 millones de rublos (11.600 millones de dólares) para proyectos del torneo es menos que el estimado de 15.000 millones de dólares gastados por Brasil en la copa del 2014.

El presupuesto para satisfacer la promesa del presidente Vladimir Putin de mostrar una Rusia más cálida y abierta excluye algunos proyectos de transportes de los que depende el torneo. Es además una bagatela comparado con la cuenta de 51.000 millones de las Olimpiadas Invernales del 2014 en Sochi.

La FIFA superará los 6.000 millones de dólares en ingresos para el ciclo comercial de cuatro años vinculado con esta Copa del Mundo, rebasando su objetivo de 5.656 millones. El torneo es por amplio margen la principal fuente de ingresos de la FIFA.

Ese objetivo, no obstante, fue conservador comparado con los 5.720 millones en ingresos asignados por la organización al ciclo de la Copa del 2014.

Ha sido difícil conseguir patrocinadores desde la revelación en mayo del 2015 de investigaciones estadounidenses y suizas de soborno sacudieron la FIFA y a decenas de dirigentes del fútbol global.

El presidente de la FIFA Gianni Infantino ha hecho promesas de ingresos para el período de cuatro años que concluye en diciembre del 2022, con el cierre de la Copa del Mundo de Catar.

Las 211 federaciones miembros de la FIFA reciben 20% más, elevando su suma anual a 1,5 millones de dólares. Los organismos rectores continentales, como la UEFA, reciben el mismo aumento, a 12 millones anuales.

Los derechos de transmisión de la Copa del Mundo son cada vez más importantes, proveyendo la mitad de todos los ingresos en los próximos cuatro años, dijo la organización en marzo.

Spellebrate Lorain County: A Night at the Bee fundraiser scheduled for June 21 to Support Volunteer Projects in Lorain County

LORAIN :
United Way of Greater Lorain County and HandsOn Northeast Ohio invite the public to its joint fundraiser, Spellebrate Lorain County: A Night at the Bee, on Thursday, June 21, 2018 at the Emerald Event Center, 33040 Just Imagine Drive in Avon. The event is scheduled from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and is presented by Northwest Bank.

This team-based community spelling bee is a fun and informal event unlike any other spelling bee where you don't actually have to be a good speller to have a great time, and it has a unique twist where spectators can win too.

Teams of four compete in the spelling bee for a $1,000 grand prize and advance on their own spelling merit. Spectators can affiliate themselves with a team in the competition and can help influence the outcome of the game by saving their favorite teams from elimination; and they can win a 50/50 raffle if their affiliated team wins the spelling bee.

The evening includes sideboard raffles and a silent auction, featuring prizes and packages from local businesses.

The event is in support of the Lorain County Volunteer Connection, a partnership between United Way and HandsOn. All money raised from the event will go towards supplies for ongoing volunteer projects and will allow local agencies to get more work done through the Lorain County Volunteer Connection.

"When we created this event three years ago our goal was for it to be unique and for it to be a lot of fun, and I think we've done that," said United Way of Greater Lorain County marketing and development director Ryan Aroney. "Now in our third year, we're starting to attract a loyal following and have built some excitement around Spellebrate.

This year will be our biggest one yet and we're hopeful to add more people from the community who want to have fun while supporting a great cause."

The master of ceremonies for Spellebrate will be Super Dave Andrews of WOBL Gold Country radio and the official pronouncer of the spelling bee will be Bruce VanDyke of AM 930 WEOL radio. The evening will also feature music and entertainment from DJ Jeff Edwards of Just Dreaming Entertainment.

Individual tickets for the event are $30 and include dinner and a drink ticket. A limited amount of team slots is still available. Registration for a team of four is $200, which also includes dinner and a drink ticket for all four team members.

Team registration is available through June 14. Tickets and registration are available at www.uwloraincounty.org/spellebrate or by calling the United Way office at 440-277-6530.

June 15th is World Elder Abuse Awareness Day

Elder Abuse can happen anywhere, anytime. It's estimated that older adults lose about $3 billion annually due to financial exploitation and abuse. The effects go beyond the checkbook; it can cause emotional distress, deterioration of physical health, and loss of independence.

Only about 1 out of 14 cases are actually reported to authorities. If you suspect someone is being abused, please report it. June 15th is World Elder Abuse Awareness Day. Seniors, family members and senior providers are encouraged to contact their local AARP Ohio Office for free scam and fraud prevention resources or for more information.

Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam.

Contact local law enforcement or the AARP Fraud Watch Network at www.aarp.org/fraudwatchnetwork or 1-877-908-3360 to report a scam or for more information on scam and fraud prevention.

El 15 de junio es el Día Mundial de Toma de Conciencia del Abuso y Maltrato en la Vejez

El abuso contra adultos mayores puede ocurrir en cualquier momento y en cualquier lugar. Se estima que las personas mayores pierden alrededor de $3,000 millones ($3 billion) al año debido a la explotación y abuso financieros. Los efectos van más allá de la chequera; puede causar sufrimiento emocional, deterioro de la salud física y pérdida de independencia.

Solo se reporta a las autoridades aproximadamente 1 de cada 14 casos. Si sospechas que alguien es víctima de abuso, repórtalo. El 15 de junio es el Día Mundial de Toma de Conciencia del Abuso y Maltrato en la Vejez. Animamos a los adultos mayores, familiares y cuidadores mayores a que se comuniquen con su oficina local de AARP para recibir recursos sobre la prevención del fraude o para más información.

¡Lucha contra el fraude! Si puedes detectar una estafa, puedes detenerla.

La Placita Cleveland 2018 begins its 4th season on June 9th

CLEVELAND: La Villa Hispana's, Clark-Fulton neighborhood will host the 4th Annual La Placita summer series of its open-air markets on three Saturdays this summer.

This year, La Placita was held on June 9th, with additional events on July 14th and August 18th, 2018. La Placita (the marketplace) is an open-air pop-up summer market and festival located at the intersection of Clark Avenue and West 25th in the US Bank lot.

Included in the June event was live music by Chakai Manta, Gozadera, and Grupo Kawakan, Latin dance lessons by VIVA Dance, and performances by Julia De Burgos Cultural Arts Center.

The Latino-themed mercado, or market, is one of many efforts to ignite La Villa Hispana, a community redevelopment project in the Clark-Fulton neighborhood of Cleveland's

West Side. This project promotes the neighborhood's Latino culture as a community identity by creating a destination that fosters economic development in the Clark-Fulton neighborhood.

Eventually La Placita will evolve into a permanent indoor, year-round operation that houses micro-retail businesses; a permanent mercado within La Villa Hispana.

La Placita events include:

- Live entertainment;
- Traditional food experiences;
- Artisan vendors;
- Experiential arts and culture programming.

Completely unique in Northeast Ohio, La Placita Cleveland is a destination for shoppers seeking Latino goods; it serves as one of the hubs of Latino culture in Cleveland. This free, family-friendly event promotes entrepreneurship by serving as an incubator to grow permanent businesses in a micro-retail mercado.

"La Placita is a grassroots neighborhood initiative where culture and commerce intersect. It is a new and exciting cultural experience that all families can enjoy while supporting local vendors offering food and goods," explained Jenice Contreras, Executive Director of the Hispanic Business Center.

Sponsors include Ward 14 Councilwoman Jasmin Santana, Dollar Bank, Dominion, Tri-C, Forest City Realty Trust, Steel Valley Federal Credit Union, Cleveland Clinic, Third Federal, Horizon Education Centers, Neighborhood Family Practice, The Centers for Family & Children, and Encompass Ohio Realty.

For more information, visit our website at www.hbcenter.org or call us at 216.281.4422 or 216.548.3026 on the date of the event.

Tri-C hosts 'Adult Student Visit Nights' in June

CLEVELAND: No matter your age, it is never too late to return to the classroom. Learn about the academic and career training opportunities available at Cuyahoga Community College (Tri-C) during Adult Student Visit Nights at five College sites during the last week of June, 2018.

The free event offers a one-stop shop for nontraditional students interested in pursuing a degree or professional certification to improve their career outlook and future.

achievement and determination of nearly 200 adults who returned to the classroom to earn a high school diploma will be celebrated Thursday, June 14, 2018, at Cuyahoga Community College (Tri-C).

The 2018 Ohio Options Adult Diploma Program and High School Equivalency Commencement will take place at 6:30 p.m. in the College's Metropolitan Campus Auditorium, located at 2900 Community College Ave. in Cleveland.

Graduates earned their diplomas at Tri-C through the Ohio Department of Education's Ohio Options program, which serves state residents who have less than a 12th-grade education and are beyond age 18.

Ohio Options and the College's adult education programs help adults build the skills they need to become employed or pursue higher education or training. Data shows that adults without a high school diploma are twice as likely to live in poverty.

"Success in life begins with education," said JaNice Marshall, associate vice president of access and community engagement at Tri-C. "Gaining a diploma opens the door to a better future for each of these graduates. It's a step toward reaching their true potential."

Thursday's commencement ceremony at Metro Campus will honor 118 students who earned their high school equivalency diploma and another 79 graduating with both a diploma and an in-demand workforce credential.

They keynote speaker at the event will be Cynthia C. Dungey, director of the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services.

To learn about the Ohio Options programs at Tri-C:

- Visit www.tri-c.edu/adultdiploma or call 216-987-0610 for information on earning a high school diploma while simultaneously taking job-training courses to work in growth industries. Applicants must be 22 years old for the Adult Diploma Program.

Tri-C 'Encore Campus Fridays' program offers learning opportunities:

The Encore Campus Fridays program at Cuyahoga Community College (Tri-C) begins a new session of classes July 13, 2018 to enrich the minds and lives of those aged 55 and older.

The summer program runs every Friday for four weeks at Eastern Campus in Highland Hills and Western Campus in Parma. Age-eligible students can enroll in one to three classes for one low fee of $49.99. The 50-minute classes take place between 9 a.m. and noon.

The overall course catalog features options on a wide variety of subjects, including art, cinema, computers, history, music, religion, science, yoga and more. Classes are taught by Tri-C faculty, retired educators and subject experts.

"Encore Campus Fridays is a great way to socialize while learning about topics you have always been interested in," said Suzanne Ortiz, who oversees the program. "The opportunities are endless."

Registration for the summer session of Encore Campus Fridays is now open. To sign up for a course, call 216-987-3075 and select option 1. Visit www.tri-c.edu/encore for more information on the program.

Unison Health Marks First Year of Providing Sub-Acute Detox

TOLEDO, June 6, 2018: After one year in operation, Unison Health's Sub-acute Detox Facility, located at 1212 Cherry Street in Toledo, has helped hundreds of people take the crucial first steps toward a life free from opioids and other addictive substances.

Since opening in June 2017, the sub-acute detox program has demonstrated remarkable effectiveness. Completion rates are in line with the national average, with an average stay lasting between five and twelve days. In addition, nearly 40% of clients received outpatient care from Unison Health within seven days of release, demonstrating the impact the program has on encouraging people to maintain their sobriety going forward. Perhaps most importantly, over 90% of clients were not readmitted to the hospital within 90 days of discharge.

According to Jeff De Lay, President and CEO of Unison Health, sub-acute detox is a key component of Unison Health's overall mission. "Our goal is to provide a continuum of care for every client, from the first days of detox to Recovery Housing post-treatment. We not only treat the substance abuse disorder, but we also treat behavioral health issues and provide primary care throughout the process. That comprehensive care helps foster an environment where true recovery can happen."

The sub-acute detox program begins with a full diagnostic assessment, while medications are administered to ease the initial symptoms of withdrawal. This medically assisted withdrawal has been proven effective in reducing the symptoms and cravings that generally occur as a user rids his or her body of opiates.

Patients are monitored 24/7 by a team specifically trained in the treatment of detox, and patients are encouraged to take part in individual and group therapy sessions designed to help them develop strategies for sober living post-detox.

Unison Health has been caring for the people of this region for more than forty years. They are dedicated to providing effective, accessible and affordable services. Unison Health accepts Ohio Medicaid and most private insurances.

Erupción de Volcán de Fuego desaparece familias enteras

Por SONIA PÉREZ D., Associated Press

ESCUINTLA, Guatemala, 5 VI 18 (AP): Lilian Hernández ya no quiere vivir: 36 miembros de su familia desaparecieron y teme que estén sepultados tras la erupción del Volcán de Fuego en Guatemala.

Familias enteras que vivían en pequeñas comunidades a su alrededor desaparecieron tras la violenta erupción del domingo y para algunos es una anticipación de que el saldo final de fallecidos sería mucho mayor de los 75 que hasta ahora han reportado las autoridades.

Lo que una vez fue una serie de cañones, colinas y campos verdes se transformó en algo más parecido a una playa color beige con rocas y escombros que dejó una avalancha de material ardiente y nubes tóxicas que descendieron del cráter de uno de los volcanes más activos de Centroamérica.

Dos días después de la erupción, el terreno seguía tan caliente que era imposible para los rescatistas buscar más cuerpos o incluso sobrevivientes.

Por la tarde, una nueva columna de humo estaba subiendo desde la montaña y el organismo de desastres de Guatemala dijo que el material volcánico estaba descendiendo por su lado sur, lo que provocó una orden de evacuación y el cierre de una carretera nacional cercana. Rescatistas, policías y periodistas se apresuraron a abandonar el área cuando una sirena resonó y en altavoces se ordenó: "Evacúe!".

La nueva orden de evacuación desencadenó un pánico, incluso, en áreas que no estaban debajo de él. Se podía ver a docenas de personas desplazándose por los caminos llevando niños o algunas pertenencias junto al tráfico paralizado en partes del municipio de Escuintla, al sur del volcán.

Lilian hace un esfuerzo para impedir que las lágrimas ahoguen su voz. No deja de llorar mientras nombra a cada uno de sus tíos, tías, primos, la niña de nueve años. Van poco más de 20 nombres, y se detiene. Ya no puede más, no recuerda, el llanto no la deja pensar, sólo dice que son 36.

Todos vivían en San Miguel Los Lotes, la aldea que quedó sepultada tras la explosión. Las mujeres eran amas de casa y los hombres trabajaban como agricultores o albañiles. Vivían en un terreno con 8 casas que habitaban todos.

Lilian dice que cuando el Volcán de Fuego hizo erupción, su hermano y su hermana corrieron para ver a su abuela.

"Mi abuela dijo que si era la voluntad de Dios que ella no salía huyendo", cuenta a The Associated Press, "Ella ya no podía caminar, le costaba movilizarse".

Desde la erupción Lilian ha pasado las noches en una iglesia mormona de la comunidad cercana de Escuintla y en el día va a la morgue en espera de alguna noticia.

Hasta ahora, sólo han localizado e identificado a un primo, César Gudiel Escalante, de 28 años. Su cuerpo fue localizado en una calle, petrificado como una estatua.

Lilian y su esposo Francisco Ortiz sobrevivieron porque dos meses antes salieron de Los Lotes para iniciar una nueva vida en un terreno a un par de kilómetros de ahí.

"La gente quedó sepultada en casi tres metros de lava", dice Ortiz, al referirse a las toneladas de flujo piroclástico, una especie de mezcla de agua, tierra, arena, piedras y palos que cayeron del volcán. "Ahí ya no queda nada, todo quedó enterrado".

Decenas de personas comparten el dolor de Lilian. Varios dicen que han perdido 20, 18, 6, 3 o 1, familiares en la tragedia.

Mientras el presidente

Jimmy Morales recorría la zona el lunes y se encontraba con sobrevivientes, una mujer que sólo se identificó con los apellidos García Ixpata, solicitaba por ayuda para su familia que vivía en Los Lotes.

"Señor presidente, mi familia está desaparecida. Mande un helicóptero para que eche agua por arriba porque se están ardiendo", dijo. "Tengo tres hijos un nieto y todos mis hermanos mi madre toda mi familia... son más de veinte".

Hoy, los habitantes de Los Lotes y El Rodeo, una comunidad cercana, buscan recoger los pedazos de vidas destrozadas y empezar a enterrar a sus muertos.

En medio de la tristeza, los pobladores no se olvidan de sus animales. Decenas de perros, gatos, gallinas, patos y pájaros han sido rescatados por sus dueños y por equipos de rescate.

Fanuel García, el Director del Instituto Nacional de Ciencias Forenses dice que la tarea de identificar los cuerpos recuperados de la tragedia ha sido difícil debido al estado de estos en su mayoría calcinados. Algunos de los cuerpos quedaron como en una especie de estatuas en posiciones como padres resguardando a sus hijos, niños abrazados o personas que intentaron correr.

García dice que a todos los cuerpos rescatados se les realizará pruebas de ADN para dar certeza a su identificación, incluso aquellos que ya fueron identificados y entregados a sus familiares y que además se creará una especie de banco de datos de familiares que busquen a sus desaparecidos.

El martes los rescatistas continuaban la tarea de recuperar los cuerpos mientras el volcán registraba por la mañana hasta 10 explosiones moderadas expulsando ceniza.

US Senator refused entry to facility holding migrants' kids

By ANDREW SELSKY, Associated Press

June 4, 2018: U.S. senator said Monday he tried to enter a federal facility in Texas where immigrant children are being held, but police were called and he was told to leave.

The attempt late Sunday by Sen. Jeff Merkley of Oregon came amid a national debate over the practice of separating families caught crossing the border without documentation.

Attorney General Jeff Sessions recently announced a "zero-tolerance policy" against all people crossing the border without documentation. More children are expected to be separated from their parents as a result.

"The administration has started ripping these children out of the arms of their parents," Sen. Merkley said in a telephone interview. "That is completely outside the soul of our nation, where virtually all of us have family history, in one branch or another, where somebody fled persecution to come to the U.S."

Sen. Merkley said he was able to enter another facility used for processing migrants and run by the Department of Homeland Security. He said he saw men, women, and children crowded in cages.

"It reminds me a little bit of a dog kennel, constructed of cyclone fencing," Merkley said. Some of the areas contained men, while others had only women and some had women holding children, he said.

Sen. Merkley was accused of grandstanding by Victoria Palmer, a spokeswoman for the Department of Health and Human Services' Administration for Children and Families.

It was out of concerns for "the safety, security and dignity of the children" that Merkley was barred from entering the Brownsville facility, Palmer said in an email.

"No one who arrives unannounced at one of our shelters demanding access to the children in our care will be permitted, even those claiming to be U.S. senators," the statement said.

Through a contractor, the agency is caring for the children being held in a former Walmart with blacked-out windows in Brownsville, Texas, a city along the Mexico border.

The Department of Health and Human Services says it operates over 100 shelters in some 17 states, and that children spend an average of 51 days in them.

Sen. Merkley live-streamed on Facebook his attempt to visit the Brownsville facility. He said he and the press should be able to see conditions inside.

"Every American citizen has a stake in how these children are being treated and how this policy is being enacted," Merkley said in the video.

In Brownsville, a supervisor emerged from the building and said he wasn't allowed to make any statement. He gave the senator a phone number of the public affairs office in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services in Washington, DC.

Meanwhile, Brownsville police arrived and asked Merkley for his name and birth date. Sen. Merkley provided the information and then tried to explain to the officer why he had come to the facility.

"The attorney general's team, and the Office of Refugee Resettlement, they don't want anyone to know about what's going on behind these doors," Sen. Merkley told the police officer.

Sen. Bob Menéndez, a New Jersey Democrat, said on Twitter that his team was also barred from a migrant facility where families were being separated. He said the federal government's actions were "outrageous" and called for an explanation from Secretary of Homeland Security Kirstjen Nielsen.

Palmer said there's a "process" for entering such a facility that Merkley should follow "to make headway on this important issue, rather than just headlines."

Sen. Merkley said his office was told earlier it would take weeks to have a visit authorized, and that he suspected it would be stage-managed "to look wonderful."

By midday Monday, Merkley's video had over 1 million views on Facebook.

A look at Trump's pardons and commutations, ...so far

By JILL COLVIN, Associated Press

WASHINGTON, DC, June 1, 2018 (AP): Donald Trump announced via tweet that he would be giving a full presidential pardon to conservative media commentator Dinesh D'Souza, declaring he was "treated very unfairly by our government!"

Here's a look at Trump's other pardons and commutations so far:

JOEARPAIO, 8-25-17: In his first use of his presidential pardon power, Trump spared former Arizona sheriff Joe Arpaio the prospect of serving jail time after a conviction stemming from his use of immigration patrols that focused on Latinos.

The White House said 85-year-old Arpaio, a top Trump supporter during the 2016 campaign, was a "worthy candidate" for the pardon, citing his "life's work of protecting the public from the scourges of crime and illegal immigration."

The pardon in August 2017 came less than a month after a judge found Arpaio guilty of a misdemeanor contempt-of-court charge in a trial that was prosecuted by the president's own Justice Department.

Arpaio had defied court orders that he stop the patrols so that he could promote his immigration enforcement efforts in a bid to boost his successful 2012 re-election campaign.

SHOLOM RUBASHKIN, 12-20-17: In late 2017, Trump commuted the sentence of an Iowa kosher meatpacking executive who had been sentenced to 27 years in prison for money laundering.

Sholom Rubashkin was convicted in 2009 of submitting fake invoices to a bank that made his family business's finances appear healthier than they were so they could borrow more. The 57-year-old father of 10 had served more than eight years of his sentence at the time.

The decision to intervene on Rubashkin's behalf came at the urging of numerous members of Congress and a long list of high-ranking law enforcement officials, who argued the sentence was too harsh for a first-time, nonviolent offender.

The action did not vacate Rubashkin's conviction.

KRISTIAN SAUCIER: Trump in March of 2018 pardoned Kristian Saucier, a U.S. Navy sailor, who served a year in federal prison after taking photos of classified portions of a submarine.

Trump often mentioned Saucier on the campaign trail as he criticized his Democratic rival, Hillary Clinton, for her use of a private email server. In a January tweet, he criticized the federal judicial system for going after a sailor instead of a top Clinton aide.

Saucier pleaded guilty in 2016 of taking photos inside the USS Alexandria while it was stationed in Groton, Connecticut, in 2009. He said he only wanted service mementos, but federal prosecutors argued he was a disgruntled sailor who had put national security at risk by taking photos showing the submarine's propulsion system and reactor compartment and then obstructed justice by destroying a laptop and camera.

LEWIS "SCOOTER" LIBBY, 4-13-18: Trump issued a full pardon in April to I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby, a former top aide to Vice President Dick Cheney who was convicted of lying to investigators and obstruction of justice following the 2003 leak of the covert identity of CIA officer Valerie Plame.

President George W. Bush later commuted Libby's 30-month prison sentence but declined to issue a pardon despite intense pressure from Cheney. No one was ever charged for the leak.

JACK JOHNSON: Trump in May of 2018 granted a rare, posthumous pardon to boxing's first black heavy-weight champion, clearing Jack Johnson's name more than 100 years after what many saw as his racially charged conviction.

Trump said as he announced his decision that he wanted "to correct a wrong that occurred in our history and to honor a truly legendary boxing champion."

Johnson was convicted in 1913 by an all-white jury of violating the Mann Act for traveling with his white girlfriend. That law made it illegal to transport women across state lines for "immoral" purposes.

The case had been championed by actor Sylvester Stallone, and Trump credited the Rocky star for bringing Johnson's story to his attention.

Stallone, WBC heavy-weight champion Deontay Wilder and retired heavy-weight titleholder Lennox Lewis all joined Trump in an Oval Office ceremony.

DINESH D'SOUZA: Trump announced via tweet on Thursday that he planned to pardon conservative commentator Dinesh D'Souza, who pleaded guilty to campaign finance fraud.

"Will be giving a Full Pardon to Dinesh D'Souza today," Trump wrote. "He was treated very unfairly by our government!"

D'Souza was sentenced to five years of probation in 2014 after pleading guilty to violating federal election law by making illegal contributions to a U.S. Senate campaign in the names of others.

D'Souza and his supporters claimed he was unfairly treated by the Obama administration because of his fierce criticism of the former president, but the federal judge in his case said he produced no evidence of this.

ALICE JOHNSON, 6-6-18: Johnson's plea for clemency garnered national attention when Kim Kardashian West learned of her case from a Mic video that showed Johnson explaining how her involvement in a cocaine trafficking operation landed her in prison for life without the possibility of parole. Moved by Johnson's story, Kardashian West put her personal lawyer on the case, spoke to senior adviser Jared Kushner, and eventually went to the White House to meet with Trump. She had served 21 years of the life sentence.

THE CUYAHOGA COUNTY BOARD OF ELECTIONS COMPLETES SIX RECOUNTS FROM THE MAY 8, 2018 PRIMARY ELECTION

CLEVELAND: The Cuyahoga County Board of Elections has concluded the ballot recounts of four tied candidate races and two automatic recounts of issues from the May 8th, 2018 Primary Election. The recounts did not change the outcome of the official results.

On Tuesday, May 29th the Board of Elections certified the election results and then flipped a coin to determine the winners of the four tied candidate races. The tied contests were then subject to automatic recounts to confirm the results. There were also two ballot issues that were subject to recounts.

The recount totals matched the official results so the winners who were determined by the coin flips will not change. "This reaffirms confidence and accuracy of our voting system as well as the methods we utilize to administer elections," said Pat McDonald the Director of the Board of Elections.

The largest candidate recount was in the race for Republican State Central Committee, Senate District 23 (woman). Candidates Doris Durica and Candice Miller both received 5,128 votes. The recount included 843 ballots that were hand counted. Candice Miller won the seat by a coin flip.

CUYAHOGA COMMUNITY COLLEGE
REQUEST FOR QUALIFICATIONS FOR DESIGN-BUILD SERVICES
Ohio State Form F180-01
College Wide Infrastructure Maintenance – Architectural
Project No. C20188002

Project Description
 Cuyahoga Community College consists of a total of 11 locations, approximately 50 buildings and more than 3,200,000 square feet of space.

Given the College is now over 50 years old, a large portion of the facilities infrastructure is aged and in need of repair and/or upgrade. A detailed list is maintained that identifies Infrastructure Maintenance (IM) projects that need to be performed to restore the infrastructure.

This Request for Qualifications is for Design-Build Services for the projects categorized as Architectural. There are approximately 74 individual identified IM projects in that package across 8 of the locations with an estimated Construction Cost of approximately $14.1 million. Projects in this package include items such as restroom renovations, flooring replacement, ceiling replacement, roof replacements and building exterior envelope replacements & repairs.

The College chose a Criteria A/E firm (Hasenstab Architects) in late 2017 who is currently working on the criteria requirements (minimum SD level). This information will be supplied to the short listed firms.

LOS PEQUEÑOS NEGOCIOS

Y EL MEDIO AMBIENTE SE BENEFICIAN DEL GAS NATURAL

Por Mónica Martínez
 Presidente, Hispanics in Energy

“Los Estados Unidos de América (EUA) se está convirtiendo en el líder indiscutible mundial en producción de petróleo y gas natural”. Según Fatih Birol, portavoz de la Agencia Internacional de la Energía (IEA por sus siglas en inglés), quien añade “la increíble habilidad de los productores en la explotación de nuevos recursos de forma económica” ha contribuido a “un aumento de las inversiones en industrias energéticas y petroquímicas”.

Ha sido una transformación total si tenemos en cuenta la situación en la que estábamos tan sólo hace una década, cuando las perspectivas energéticas de EUA eran de escasez y dependencia. Un incremento fuerte de la producción en lugares como Ohio ha hecho posible que los Estados Unidos pueda encontrarse a la cabeza del mercado energético global. Mientras que el desarrollo energético del “Buckeye State” tiene un impacto global, los beneficios económicos son locales.

Un estudio reciente muestra que el petróleo y el gas natural proporcionaron 262,000 empleos en Ohio en 2015, contribuyendo $38 billones a la economía estatal. La actividad económica relacionada con el desarrollo energético se extiende a través de todo el mercado, generando beneficios para negocios grandes y pequeños. Desde compañías de construcción a suministradores de equipos para restaurantes, cientos de negocios de Ohio se han beneficiado del desarrollo del gas natural. Y se espera que las oportunidades para individuos buscando trabajo continúen también creciendo. Un reporte reciente proyecta 1.9 millones de oportunidades de trabajo en las industrias estadounidenses del petróleo, gas natural y petroquímicas para 2035, con cerca de un 40 por ciento ocupado por trabajadores afroamericanos, hispanos y mujeres. Y son trabajos bien pagados.

Las compañías se benefician de los ahorros generados por una energía doméstica barata – los ahorros pueden ser invertidos para crecer y ofrecer más empleo. En 2015, una vivienda media estadounidense se ahorró $1,337 en gastos relacionados con la electricidad y energía. Para 2040, sólo el gas natural va a ayudar a ahorrar a los consumidores de todo el país un estimado de $100 billones, o $655 por vivienda, debido al incremento del uso de un combustible abundante y económico a nivel nacional – desde manufactura a generación eléctrica.

Queda claro que los beneficios para el desarrollo energético de Ohio se notan en toda la economía, ayudando a ahorrar a pequeños negocios y familias. Proporcionando energía y materia prima química para numerosos productos, el gas natural asequible está ayudando a que la industria de manufactura estadounidense permanezca competitiva.

En muchos casos, el acceso a energía asequible es lo que permite mantener puestos de trabajo en la comunidad local. Este es el caso de Mohawk Industries, una compañía fabricante de moquetas (carpet) en Virginia. En 2011, Mohawk Industries anunció que iba a irse de Virginia para poder reducir sus costes – una situación que las autoridades comentaron “hubiera devastado la economía local al eliminar 154 puestos de trabajo directos y más de $10 millones de inversiones de capital”. Una vez que se supo que la compañía podría quedarse si encontraban una forma de reducir sus gastos de operación, las autoridades locales colaboraron con Mohawk para construir un gasoducto y conectarse a una red de gas natural. Funcionó. Con el acceso a gas natural económico, Mohawk estimó que van a ahorrar más de $110,000 al mes, y al final los 154 trabajadores locales conservaron su puesto de trabajo – demostrando que incluso estados que no son productores se pueden beneficiar del desarrollo energético.

El gas natural también está contribuyendo a tener aire para respirar más limpio. Las emisiones de carbono procedentes de la generación eléctrica se han reducido a los niveles más bajos de los últimos 30 años, con más del 60 por ciento de la reducción debido al incremento del uso de una opción más limpia, el gas natural. No es todo. Una combinación de gas natural, combustibles más limpios para motores e innovaciones tecnológicas han contribuido a un descenso del 73 por ciento de las emisiones combinadas de seis contaminantes clave entre 1970 y 2016, a pesar del incremento en el producto nacional bruto GDP (hasta un 253 por ciento más desde 1970), consumo energético (un 44 por ciento más) y millas viajadas por vehículo (un 190 por ciento más). Mientras que el crecimiento de las energías renovables como solar y eólica nos ofrecen una promesa adicional e indudablemente van a contribuir a un futuro energético más limpio, la abundancia de gas natural continúa siendo un socio clave para producir energía y poder presentar una apuesta económica y de confianza cuando no hay disponibilidad de sol y viento o la demanda aumenta.

El desarrollo del gas natural es parte integral de muchos aspectos de la economía de Ohio. Cuando quieres ver todo lo que hay detrás de los grandes titulares, los beneficios del gas natural al medioambiente y a la economía en general están claros.

GRACIAS AL GAS NATURAL

EL AIRE QUE RESPIRAMOS ES MÁS LIMPIO

La industria del petróleo y gas natural ofrece un futuro prometedor para todos los estadounidenses. Las innovadoras tecnologías desarrolladas por la industria del petróleo y gas natural de EUA están cubriendo las necesidades energéticas del país, produciendo energía más limpia y reduciendo el impacto medioambiental. El aire que respiramos es más limpio de lo que haya sido en décadas y las emisiones están en el nivel más bajo de los últimos 25 años, gracias al incremento del uso de gas natural. Así es como estamos rompiendo las barreras del pasado y avanzando hacia un futuro mejor y más limpio.
