Immigrant parents happy but traumatized after kids returned

By JULIE WATSON and NOMAAN MERCHANT, Associated Press

SANDIEGO, July 11, 2018 (AP): Immigrant parents who reveled after joyful reunions with their young children spoke Wednesday of the trau-matic impact of being separated from their sons and daughters for months after they were taken from them at the U.S. border.

The administration has been scrambling to reunify the families this week to meet the first of two deadlines set by a federal judge in San Diego who ordered thousands of children be given back to their immigrant parents. Scores of children separated from their families were sent to governmentcontracted shelters or foster care hundreds of miles away from where their parents were detained.

Roger Ardino, from Hon-duras, was happy to be back with his 4-year-old son, Roger Jr., who saton his lap and played with the microphones as the father spoke to reporters. The father said he was still shaken by the ordeal he had to go through just to speak to his boy while he was in govern-ment custody. The two were separated in February. He described feeling a pain in his heart and like he couldn't breathe after his son was taken away. The father held up his wrist and told reporters that after they were separated, he threatened to use a razor on himself if he couldn't speak to his son

He spoke Wednesday at Annunciation House, an El Paso, Texas-based shelter, along with another father recently reunited with his child. They arrived there Tuesday. "I was completely trauma-tized," the father said in Spanish. He added later: "Every time I spoke to him, he would start crving. Where are the rights of children? I thought children were supposed to be a priority here in the United States."

The father said he planned to live with relatives in the United States as his asylum case is processed, which could take years.

It wasn't immediately clear how many children remain in detention facilities. Late last month, U.S. District Judge Dana Sabraw in San Diego set a 14-day deadline to reunite children under 5 with their parents and a 30-day deadline for older children. He asked the government to return to court Friday to give an update on how many families had been reunited.

In trying to meet the first deadline, the government be-gan with a list of 102 children potentially eligible to be re-united and whittled that to 75 through screening that in-cluded DNA testing done by swabbing the inside of the cheek

Of those 75. Justice Department attorneys told the court the government would guar-antee 38 would be back with their parents by the end of Tuesday. They said an addi-tional 17 could also join their parents if DNA results arrived and a criminal background check on a parent was com-pleted. It was not known Wednesday whether that happened. Government attorneys told Sabraw that the Trump administration would not meet the deadline for 20 other children under 5 because it needed more time to track down parents who have already been deported or released into the U.S.

Sabraw indicated more time would be allowed only in specific cases where the govern-ment showed good reasons for a delay. The administration defended its screening, saying it discovered parents with serious criminal histories, five adults whose DNA tests showed they were not parents of the children they claimed to have, and one case of credible child abuse.

The administration faces a second, bigger deadline—July 26—to reunite more than 2,000 older children with their families. Immigration attor-neys say they already are seeing barriers to those reunifications from a backlog in the processing of fingerprint-ing of parents to families unable to afford the airfare to fly the child to them—which could run as high as $1,000.

El Muro: More South Texas land owners getting letters on border wall

ROMA, Texas, July 8, 2018 (AP): More property owners along the U.S.-Mexico border in South Texas have said they've received notices from the fed-eral government asking to review their land, which could be used for border wall construction

KENS-TV reports residents in the town of Escobares, including Mayor Noel Escobar, re-ceived letters from the Army Corps of Engineers and U.S. Customs and Border Protection a few weeks ago to get their consent to survey their land. "I walk out the back door and what I'm going to see is a 30-foot fence," Escobar said. Rio Grande City School District board president Daniel García said the district got a letter in May about district property that's being consid-ered for "tactical infrastructure, such as a border wall." The school board last month approved a request from U.S. Customs and Border Protection to come onto district property for survey and site

The land is not currently being used by the district.

García said had he known it was meant for the border wall, he would have voted against the request.

Texas Congressman Here volue against Roma resident Felix Rodríguez said he was vis-ited by a government em-ployee surveying his land earlier this year, offering $300 for a portion of his 500-square-foot property. He wants at least $1,500. Texas Congressman Henry Cuellar, who repre-sents the area, said federal officials told him there have been over 200 of these re-quests made in Starr and Hidalgo counties.

Man charged with hate crime over Puerto Rican shirt incident

By DON BABWIN, Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 12, 2018 (AP): A man who can be seen in a video chastising a woman in a video chastising a woman at a Chicago forest preserve for wearing a shirt with the Puerto Rican flag on it has been charged with commit-ting a hate crime, the Cook County State's Attorney's Office announced Thursday.

Timothy Trybus, 62, of Des Plaines now is charged with two felony counts of committing a hate crime in addition to misdemeanor counts of assault and disorderly conduct he already faced.

In the video posted on social media and widely viewed, a man later identified by authorities as Trybus can be seen berating the woman on June 14 at Caldwell Woods. When the woman complains to a Cook County Forest Preserves officer that the man is harassing her and questioning her citizen-ship, the officer doesn't respond. Puerto Rico is a U.S. commonwealth. The officer was put on desk duty while officials investi-gated. He resigned this week. In the wake of the incident, Cook County Board President Toni Preckwinkle offered her apology to the woman and took the unusual step of calling Ricardo Rossello, the governor of Puerto Rico. Rossello wanted the officer fired.

Meanwhile, the Forest Preserves issued its own apology for what happened. It wasn't immediately clear if Trybus has an attorney to comment on his behalf. In the video, Trybus can be seen approaching the woman and pointing at her shirt as he berates her. "You should not be wearing that in the United States of America," he tells her. He also questions her about whether she was an American citizen.

The woman, who apparently is the one recording the encounter, can be heard talking but her face is not shown. At one point, she turns the camera on herself to show her shirt. She asks the officer for help, saying the man is mak-ing her feel uncomfortable.

More officers arrived and arrested the man. Trybus is scheduled to appear in court on Friday, July 13.

La Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México invita a estudiar el bachillerato a distancia; Desde México para el mundo: Estudia en tu propio idioma, en línea y con beca

Por: Isabel Flores, Corresponsal La Prensa

La Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México (UNAM) invita a todos los mexicanos hispanoparlantes en general que viven fuera de México a realizar sus estudios de nivel medio superior (preparatoria) en línea y en su idioma. La convocatoria estará abierta del 6 al 21 de agosto del 2018 y los interesados ya pueden comenzar a preregistrarse en el siguiente link: www.bunam.una.mx/ extranjero

Este programa se realiza gracias a la Dirección de Bachillerato a Distancia (DBD) que forma parte de la Coordinación de Universidad Abierta y Educación a Distancia de la UNAM, el cual fue creado con el propósito fundamen-tal que a los mexicanos y demás hispanoparlantes que viven fuera de México les sea posible realizar sus estudios de nivel medio superior en su idioma. Como un beneficio que otorga la UNAM a los migrantes fuera de México, los alumnos del Bachillerato a Distancia cuentan con beca por lo que el cursar las asignaturas no tendrá costo alguno. Únicamente se tendrá que pagar por el derecho a examen de admisión que son aproximadamente 20 dólares Gracias a este programa, muchos jóvenes han podido completar su sueño de continuar con sus estudios para convertirse en profesionales. Tal es el caso de Gloria Esmeralda quien actualmente vive en San Francisco, California. A los 15 años fue seleccionada para estudiar en la Preparatoria No.1 de la UNAM, sin embargo, por motivos ajenos a su voluntad tuvo que truncar sus estudios. Diez años más tarde se entera del Bachillerato a Distancia y concluye sus estudios de nivel medio superior.

"Haber estudiado en el Bachillerato a Distancia de la UNAM fue un gran reto y estoy enormemente agradecida con la UNAM por brindarme esta oportunidad. Ahora, tres años después no me importa haberme desvelado pues yo sé que los grandes logros requieren sacrificios, y la mejor sensación es la dicha de haber concluido mi bachillerato", compartió Gloria en el portal de Bachillerato a Distancia.

Por su parte, Andrés, vive en Dakota del Sur y es el egresado con el mejor promedio de su generación. Su situación migratoria es complicada debido a que es indocumentado, por esta razón tiene más de 10 años que no se reúne con su familia, pero espera hacerlo muy pronto, pues desea regresar a México y encontrar un buen empleo ahora que tiene el certificado de Bachillerato y estudia la Licenciatura en Relaciones Internacionales en línea: ";Claro que recomendaría el Bachillerato a Distancia de la UNAM! Lo he hecho... a todo mundo le platico y le presumo que acabo de terminar mi Bachillerato... se siente bien bonito y creo que transmito esas ganas de seguirme superando...atodos les ando diciendo que ellos también pueden".

Así como ellos, la UNAM exhorta a todos los jóvenes que radican en el exterior, a continuar con sus estudios. Los interesados deben contar con computadora o dispositivo móvil con acceso a Internet, así como tener habilidades básicas para el manejo de internet y programas de cómputo; tener disposición e interés para estudiar el bachillerato a distancia y contar con tiempo suficiente para dedicar al menos 20 horas semanales al estudio. Asimismo, deben completar los siguientes requisitos:

• Registrarse por Internet.

· Llenar el formato de registro en línea, leer con todo cuidado el instructivo que se anexa a la convocatoria v cumplir con lo ahí establecido en forma oportuna. Es necesario contar con la siguiente documentación:

Comprobante de domicilio • CURP

Así mismo cursar y acreditar tres cursos propedéuticos y ser seleccionado en el examen de admisión a la UNAM

El Bachillerato a Distancia (B@UNAM)secaracterizapor su innovador modelo educativo, en el que las asignaturas son interdisciplinarias. Son 24 asignaturas articuladas en cuatro ejes (ciencias naturales, matemáticas, ciencias sociales humanidades) que corresponden a la formación disciplinaria, mismos que interactúan a lo largo de todo el programa. Se cursa una asignatura a la vez. El tiempo para cursar cada una de las asignaturas es de 5 semanas. con base en un calendario que la coordinación operativa les hace llegar.

En las asignaturas los contenidos están divididos en unidades didácticas para potenciar al máximo el aprendizaje a partir de la interrelación de texto. objetos de aprendizaje, recursos adicionales y evaluaciones.

El modelo, centrado en el estudiante, implica un decidido enfoque social, que promueve la conformación comunidades de de aprendizaje, cuyos saberes y habilidades se fortalecen con la intercomunicación que ofrecen las TIC. A través del aprovechamiento de las herramientas comunicación (mensajería, chat, foros), y de actividades de aprendizaje que hacen uso de blogs y wikis, se promueve el desarrollo de habilidades para trabajar en equipo. Además, hay un acompañamiento personalizado de asesores (profesores en línea), y tutores (especialistas en psicopedagogía).

El programa de estudios no permite revalidaciones de asignaturas de otros bachilleratos, por lo que todos los estudiantes deben cursar el bachillerato a distancia desde el inicio.

El certificado que se otorga cuenta con todos los requisitos de validez de un programa de este nivel educativo, al igual que los programas presenciales que la UNAM ofrece, por lo que sus egresados pueden incorporarse a cualquier programa de educación superior, siempre y cuando cumplan con los requisitos que exija la institución en cuestión. Además, los egresados de este programa tendrán pase directo a las licenciaturas a distancia que ofrece la UNAM. De esta manera, se apoyo a los estudiantes para continuar con su educación superior y contar con instrumentos para acceder a una mejor calidad de vida, así como a mayores oportunidades laborales y de integración social, tanto en su país de residencia como en el de origen, en caso de regresar.

Una investigación indica que la familia de Ana Frank, la niña judía que escribió un famoso diario antes de sucumbir durante el Holocausto, intentó emigrar a Estados Unidos y después también a Cuba, pero que sus esfuerzos se vieron frustrados por las estrictas políticas migratorias estadounidenses y los brotes de enfermedades durante la Segunda Guerra Mundial. LaCasa de Ana Frank en Ámsterdam y el Museo del Holocausto en Estados Unidos informaron el viernes que según varios documentos, el padre de Ana, Otto, trató de juntar dos veces los papeles necesarios para obtener las visas estadounidenses. Después trató al parecer de solicitar permiso para ingresar a Cuba. Sin embargo, los esfuerzos de la familia para escapar fueron en vano. Ál final, se ocultaron de los nazis en Ámsterdam el 6 de julio de 1942, exactamente hace 76 años.

"Me veo obligado a tratar de emigrar y, hasta donde puedo ver, Estados Unidos es el único país al que podríamos ir", escribió Otto en inglés a un amigo en Estados Unidos en 1941.

Los esfuerzos del padre por sacar a la familia de Ĥolanda v llevarlos a Estados Unidos comenzaron en 1938, un año turbulento cuando la Alemania nazi se anexionó parte de Checoslovaquia durante el Tercer Reich. El 9 de noviembre de ese año, los nazis aterrorizaron a los judíos en todo el país en la violenta "Noche de los cristales rotos".

En la carta que Otto Frank escribió en 1941 a su amigo Nathan Straus, dice que presentó una solicitud en el consulado estadounidense en la ciudad portuaria holandesa de Rotterdam en 1938.

Sin embargo, también menciona que "todos los papeles han sido destruidos", porque el 14 de mayo de 1940, mientras la familia Frank todavía estaba en lista de espera para ver si les daban la visa, el consulado estadounidense quedó devastado durante el bombardeo alemán y todos los documentos se perdieron.

Sin embargo, incluso si no se hubiera perdido la solicitud de visa, hubiera sido muy difícil que los Frank emigraran a Estados Unidos, ya que miles de personas estaban buscando refugio cada año en ese país para el momento en que la guerra comenzó en 1939. En ese entonces el gobierno estadounidense estaba emitiendo menos de 30.000 visas anuales.

ing feeling was this is right that they're being reunited, but this was so wrong from the very beginning, and it didn't have to happen this way," Bellor said. "They should never have been sepa-

Michigan museum mural to trace city's immigration history

HAMTRAMCK, July 10, 2018 (AP): A history museum in southeastern Michigan is set to unveil a mural celebrating the city's immigrants, despite the artist being behind schedule.

Artist Dennis Orlowski told the Detroit News that at least two-thirds of the Hamtramck Historical Museum installation will be complete in time for the unveiling on July 19. The "Coming to Hamtramck" mural will be 175 feet long (53 meters) and over 6 feet tall (2 meters) inside the museum located in the Detroit enclave of Hamtramck.

The Michigan Humanities Council funded the mural with a $15,000 grant.

Each of the mural's panels will be devoted to a specific immigrant group instrumental to the city's evolution, from French, German and Polish immigrants to today's Yemenis and Bangladeshis. The segment dedicated to Albanians features Luigi Gjokaj, a Hamtramck police officer, standing in front of the Albanian-owned Hamtramck Coney Island near the owner of the Hamtramck Review newspaper.

"As far as we know, we're the most diverse city in Michigan now, and one of the most diverse in the nation," said Greg Kowalski, a founder and chairman of the museum.

The city has a majority-Muslim city council and a Polish-American mayor.

Orlowski is working to convey the immigration patterns in acrylics, and the process to paint one panel can take four to six weeks. He was supposed to finish the mural by November, but it's taking longer to capture details and accuracy. Any change in a figure's pose or color causes a chain reaction requiring Orlowski to adapt other figures and tints to create a balance.

Wood County Health Department encourages people to get more exercise

BOWLING GREEN. July 10, 2018: Wood County Health Department is launching a campaign encouraging people to get more exercise using community resources such as parks, trails and fitness events, which can be good ways to change up a routine or set an exercise goal.

Community health data shows too many people are overweight, and too few get the recommended 2.5 hours of moderate-intensity exercise per week. Inactivity and obesity are tied to many areas of a person's health and can lead to a variety of serious diseases.

Only 28 percent of Wood County adults surveyed exercise five days or more per week. 10 percent did not have any physical activity in the last week

Make Room for Daddy: A field of dreams nears reality with south end development

By Kevin Milliken, La Prensa Correspondent Part Two in a series of articles

TOLEDO, July 9, 2018: There has been a lot of quiet activity in recent weeks at Danny Thomas Park, located at 2583 Broadway Street. But between the efforts of Toledo's parks and recreation department and the Cal Ripken, Jr. Foundation, that crumbling park could see more than $1 million worth of renovations by the end of next summer, including a brand-new youth baseball stadium.

According to Chris Amato, director of Heritage South, $400,000 has been secured in state funding for park improvements. Toledo's mayor and city council have pledged more than $300,000 in capital improvement funding for Danny Thomas Park, Heritage South also expects more funding in the 2019 city spending plan to leverage the Cal Ripken, Jr. Foundation investment.

If all plans on the drawing board receive funding of one sort or another. Amato predicts the overall park investment to approach $1.8 million over the next few vears

According to Amato, the foundation will spend at least $400.000 to build a new baseball field with artificial turf, dugouts, new fencing, and other amenities. The Atlanta-based group already has visited Toledo twice this summer, with a third visit planned this month. The foundation has funded and built nearly 80 such vouth baseball fields. but the Old South End project will be its first in Ohio. The proposed stadium also can be used for soccer and possible lacrosse. "Cal Ripken, we're told, will come in at least once or twice. He's gone to every single dedication that they've done all across the country," said Amato. Danny Thomas Park is a two-tiered recreation facility, with basketball courts and a football practice field on the lower level and a baseball field on the upper tier. But underground is a former 15million-gallon reservoir Danny Thoma made of concrete. There will be some engineering done to see what that structure can support in the way of a baseball stadium.

"At one point the thinking was that we'd cave all that in, move the dirt, and level it out. That got to be too expensive," said Amato. "This is going to be the neatest park in the city."

Amato credits a group of former St. John's High School classmates for doing the networking necessary to draw the attention of the foundation. He stated the class of 1969 has "a lot of wonderful and successful people in it." Construction on the baseball field will start next spring with a 90-day build-out, which should put opening day sometime in the summer of 2019.

The current baseball diamond is named Dan Roman Field, after the man who partnered with Believe Center executive director Tonva Durán to form the Sports Academy Center in 1997.

"The Believe Center is primarily the beneficiary of this effort," explained Amato. "They'll be able to do their baseball, soccer, football. They're looking at new, lighted basketball courts. We want to be able to do band concerts there-bring in the symphony, Bowsher High School. We want this to be a real neighborhood hub."

There is also conversation about extending the park across Broadway, to a vacant property that once housed Newberry Elementary School, which has since been demolished. Toledo Public the property, but the Toledo Zoo grounds staff maintains it. A community conversation was held to seek input from

Schools

still owns

Old South End residents on what they'd like to see the park become. Heritage South continues to seek input and ideas as plans begin to form for the overall look of Danny Thomas Park. Some of those ideas include adding pickle ball or shuffleboard courts to give adults some recreational opportunities. Other possibilities include a new picnic pavilion and playground.

"If we can continue to attract businesses to that neighborhood in conjunction with what the Broadway Corridor Coalition is doing with its master plan, at least physically you'll see a totally new neighborhood," concluded Amato

Editor's Note: Danny Thomas (January 6 1912-February 6, 1991) was a comedian, singer, actor, DJ, producer, and philanthropist, whose career spanned over 50 years. He created and starred in one of the most successful situational comedies in network television called "Make Room for Daddy" (aired 1953 to 1964). He was born in Deerfield, Michigan in Lenawee County but raised in Toledo, Ohio, He graduated from Woodward High School and attended the University of Toledo. He is also a co-founder of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tennessee.

June 28, 2018: CMSD CEO Eric Gordon received awards for building and leading an effective organization and for his impact on the District. Corporate College and Smart Business magazine honored the CEO and 49 other top executives with presentation of the annual Smart 50 Awards at the InterContinental Hotel. Gordon also received a separate award for his impact, one of three special categories that also include innovation and sustainability.

In a rundown on the winners, the magazine cites Gordon's role as one of the chief architects of The Cleveland Plan, a customized blueprint for education reform that was written into state law in 2012. The magazine noted that the plan has transferred authority to schools, created a portfolio of school options and increased test scores and graduation rates.

El Centro honored with Helen Rodríguez-Trías Health award

LORAIN, July 13, 2018: El Centro de Servicios Sociales has been selected to receive the Helen Rodríguez-Trías Health Award. This award, presented by UnidosUS, the nation's largest Latino advocacy organization, recognizes nonprofits with exceptional leadership and a commitment to advancing health equity and improving the health and well-being of Latinos through the implementation of innovative strategies and practices within local communities. The competitive award also confers a $5,000 prize.

"It is a humbling experience to receive the Helen Rodríguez-Trías Award, especially during UnidosUS's 50th anniversary conference in Washington DC. I'm blessed to have a team of staff that are dedicated, passionate and driven by El Centro's mission," said Victor Leandry, executive director of El Centro. "In addition to their dedication to El Centro's mission, their personal strivings towards making our community a better place makes their work even more meaningful.

Centro not to be recognized: we do our work because it is the right thing to do and because of the need of the community. However, we accept this award with pride and on behalf of our partners in our health program: Mercy Health, Lorain County Board of Mental Health, Nord Family Foundation, Nordson Corporation Foundation and the planning process in 2014. Since that time, El Centro has started a Mental Health Navigator program with Lorain County Board of Mental Health, started a bilingual nutrition education program, and became certified to offer Spanish-language diabetes and chronic illness management

The agency also offers medical interpretation at Mercy Health locations and interprets for mental health agencies. Earlier in the year, El Centro was also awarded "Agency of the Year" by the National Association of Social Workers, Ohio Region II.

"This year's recipient of the Helen Rodríguez-Trías Health Award is an organization that has been at the forefront of both empowering families and ensuring our community has an opportunity to live healthier lives," said UnidosUS President and CEO Janet Murguía. "Our Affiliate, El Centro de Servicios Sociales, Inc., is deserving because of their tireless efforts to deliver critical support to a community that often faces cultural barriers. Their counselors help people navigate the health system and serve as an advocate for them

Rodríguez-Trías was a pediatrician, educator, and women's rights activist. She was first the Latina president of the American Public Health Association (APHA), a founding member of the Women's Caucus of the APHA, and a recipient of the Presidential Citizen's medal.

Indiana county home to ICE detention center

BRAZIL, Ind., July 8, 2018 (AP): A rural, western Indiana county that's home to the state's only holding facility for people being held by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement [ICE] was paid more than $1.2 million last year to house and transport detainees.

Clay County has become a major service provider for ICE at a time when the country is debating the Trump administration's "zero tolerance" immigration policy, the (Terre Haute) Tribune-Star reported

The 176-bed Justice Center was overbuilt for the county of 26,000, said Sheriff Paul Harden. The agreement to house ICE detainees using open bed space generates upward of $1.3 million annually for its general fund, most of which officials said goes back into jail operations. The Justice Center first began housing ICE detainees in August 2013 through an intergovernmental service agreement with the U.S. Marshals Service's Prisoner Operations Division. ICE saw the existing arrangement while looking for spacious Midwestern jails and decided Clay County was a natural fit. The agreement pays the county $55 per ICE detainee per day and transportation fees of $20 per hour per guard.

The jail is allowed to house an average of 65 detainees per day. Harden said the jail has an average 25 detainees on a given day, but Jail Commander Ryan Cannon said the averages don't reflect the rapid fluctuations in daily numbers. Harden said politics has nothing to do with the program and that it is money coming to the county. "If we can have some money coming in and not just have an empty cell, why not have the money coming in?" Harden said.

He emphasized that the detainees at Clay County usually aren't "illegal-entry" defendants, but that they are more often picked up for serious criminal offenses

"Very rarely do they ever target someone that has not committed a criminal violation," he said. "Now sometimes police will be making an arrest and another individual there is found without the proper paperwork to be in the United States. Then in that case, they may be picked up for a non-criminal offense.

Northern California jail ends federal immigration contract

By PAUL ELIAS, Associated Press

SANFRANCISCO, July 10, 2018 (AP): A Northern California jail will cancel its profitable contract with federal immigration officials to house suspects facing deportation, authorities said Tuesday.

The Contra Costa County Sheriff's Department is the third local law enforcement agency in California to cut ties in recent months with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement [ICE] officials amid continued protests over federal detention policies.

Contra Costa County Sheriff David Livingston said several factors led the county to sever ties with ICE, including rising costs and community protests.

"Managing protests in Richmond have become expensive and time-consuming for our staff," the sheriff said. State and local funds will fill in the missing revenue and no lavoffs are forecast because of the contract's cancellation, Livingston said.

ICE pays Contra Costa County $6 million a year to jail up to 200 people a day believed to be living in the United States without documentation, and the jail nets about half of that, the sheriff said. He said without an increase in what ICE pays, the contract will soon be a money loser because of rising staff costs.

ICE has 120 days until the contract is formally terminated.

ICE contracts with several California jail and a state prison to house about 3,800 detainees facing deportation or are seeking asylum while immigration judges decide their cases.

The county's decision will hurt immigration enforcement efforts, ICE spokesman Richard Rocha said. The agency may have to house inmates further from their relatives, he said.

"Now, instead of being housed close to family members or local attorneys, ICE may have to depend on its national system of detention bed space to place those detainees in locations farther away reducing the opportunities for in-person family visitation and attorney coordination," Rocha said in a statement.

Supervisor John Gioia, who represents the city where the jail is located, said canceling the contract was a good decision. "The price that we pay in the erosion of trust with our immigrant families is a good reason to cancel the contract," Gioia said. Sacramento County notified ICE last month it was terminating its contract. Monterev County ended its contract in December. Activists supported the contract's termination, but they called for most detainees to be released from ICE custody while their immigration cases wind through the courts.

"Our perspective is that more families need to be reunified," said the Rev. Deborah Lee, executive director of the Oakland-based Interfaith Movement for Human Integrity. "We want people released."

Lee and her group have organized protests for several years outside the jail in Richmond, California, about 20 miles (32 kilometers) northeast of San Francisco. The group conducts a prayer vigil outside the jail once a month seeking the release of detainees while their cases are pending

Richmond Mayor Tom Butt said most city residents "aren't going to miss ICE."

But the mayor said he was concerned that area detainees will now be held far from the San Francisco Bay Area. The closest ICE detention facility is in Marysville, California, about 110 miles (177 kilometers) northeast of Richmond.

Immigrant PhD candidate rocked by sudden U.S. Army discharge

By MARTHA MENDOZA AND GARANCE BURKE, Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7, 2018 (AP): Growing up in east-ern China, Panshu Zhao fell in love with the United States. He read the Bible his parents gave him, watched Hollywood mov-ies, and studied the ideals of democracy. He jumped at the chance to attend graduate school at Texas A&M Univer- sity. In 2016 Panshu Zhao enlisted in the U.S. Army as part of a special recruitment program offering immigrants in the country legally a path to citizenship. The future, he said, was bright. Now, he is one of the dozens of immigrant recruits and re-servists struggling with abrupt, often unexplained military discharges and canceled contracts. They traded being willing to risk their lives for the prospect of U.S. citizenship, a timeworn exchange that's drawn linguists, medical specialists and thou-sands of other immigrants to the military since the Revolutionary War. "It's just like you're dropped from heaven to hell," Zhao told The Associated Press on Friday.

It is unclear how many men and women who enlisted through the special recruitment program have been ousted from the Army, but immigration at-torneys told the AP that they know of more than 40 recruits who recently have been discharged or whose status has become questionable.

Some recruits say they were given no reason for their discharge. Others said the Army informed them they'd been labeled as security risks because they have relatives abroad or because the Defense Department had not completed background checks on them

The Pentagon said Friday that there has been no policy change since last year, when Defense Secretary Jim Mattis said no one could enter basic training without completion of a background investigation. And Army spokeswoman Cynthia O. Smith said that any enlistee entering the military undergoes security screenings. "Each recruit undergoes an individualized suitability review and the length of time for the review is dependent upon each individual's unique background," Smith said. tary ranks. Seven years later,

Zhao, 31, said his "ship out" date to basic training was delayed for two years as he underwent background checks, counterintelligence interviews and rigorous reviews added as requirements for immigrant enlistees

A few months later, the military sus-pended MAVNI.

That same month, he got ord from his unit commander: He was being discharged. He was told simply that his discharge was "uncharacterized," he said. "I'm not a national threat,"

Zhao said. "On the contrast, I'm a national merit because people like me with higher education and critical skills. we want to serve this great U.S. Army. I'm a good scientist no matter what."

The Pentagon announced last October that in order to apply for citizenship, immirant recruits were required to have gone through basic training and served honorably for either 180 days or a year, depending on their Army classi-fication. But that requirement has been challenged in court.

Some discharged service members whose basic training was delayed cannot start the naturalization process. Others, who started the process, have had their applications put on hold.

Immigration attorneys told the AP that many immigrants let go in recent weeks received an "uncharacterized discharge," which is neither dis-honorable nor honorable.

A Brazilian reservist, Lucas Calixto, filed a lawsuit in Washington, D.C., last week con-tending that he was booted without the Defense Department giving him a chance to

Project Overview

Project Description

In 2014 the College created a Master Plan which would position the In 2014 the College created a Master Plan which would position the campus for the future. Features of this plan were developed to increase student access and success, provide student housing, increase green spaces, improve vehicle traffic, improve sports fields, connect the campus with a central walking spine, and introduce select retail shops. The campus sought to model a 4-year institution, and be a central hub for the surrounding community. Over the last 12 months, this Master Plan was updated and the first three phases identified. At this time the College is seeking CMR qualifications for services covering all three of these phases. However, only phase 1 CMR services will be executed starting this year. Phase 1 consists of modifying the East Campus facility including reconfiguring of Robert Bishop Drive, installation of a new north-south connection road, new east-west pedestrian walkway, new campus green space. and reconfigured parking pedestrian walkway, new campus green space, and reconfigured parking lots. These phase 1 items amount to approx. $7.9m in total project costs. The remaining phases include additional parking lots (-5), amphitheater, additional pedestrian walkways, a multi-purpose walking trail, and athletic field revisions. This additional work amounts to approx. $17,000,000.

Professional A/E services have already been awarded under a separate contract to Osborn Engineering. This project will be turned over to the Construction Manager at Risk at the 75% CD stage of development.

Scope of Services

The selected Construction Manager at Risk ("CMr"), as a portion of its required Scope of Services and prior to submitting its proposal, will discuss and clarify with the Owner, the breakdown of the Agreement detailed cost components, to address the Owner's project requirements and refine the project schedule.

As required by the Agreement, and as properly authorized, provide the following categories of services: provide constructability review comments on documents produced by the A/E during the Design Development and Construction Document stage; develop and maintain estimates of probable construction cost, value engineering, project schedules, and construction and Bidding process, Construction and Closeout Stage.

Refer to the Ohio Facilities Construction Manual for additional information about the type and extent of services required for each. A copy of the standard agreement can be obtained at the OFCC website at http:// ofcc.ohio.gov.
